MORE ABOUT Townsend Picnic

this Congressional district, opened the speaking program. "Sixty per cent of the earnings of the American people go to a few money barons" he said. "Hundreds and hundreds of thousands of people willing to work are going hungry. We have pyramided millions and millions of dollars in wealth to people who did not need it. There is only one road we can go unless we return to the people the old Constitution as it was written by our forefathers, and that is the road to destruction. Let's take the other road, the road that leads to prosperity and happiness."

Mr. Wirth gave a comprehensive outline of the Townsend plan and his talk made a deep impression on all. It was the unanimous wish of the meeting, as expressed by the adoption of a resolution presented by Ethel Sowell of Medford, that the speaker be urged to become a candidate for U. S. senator. Mr. Wirth made no promises, but said he would take the matter under advisement.

"We must have a medium of exchange" said Ernest Rhoads, red hot speaker from Grants Pass. "The day of barter is over. It is mere folk lore that the banks are bulging with money. There is but little over five billion dollars of actual money in circulation. The balance is credit circulation. There are more than a thousand billions of dollars of business transactions in one year."

Mr. Rhoads made a four-base hit by explaining why the Townsend plan calls for a $200 per month pension. He said that Dr. Townsend, while working on his plan, studied among other reports, a report from the fact finding committee of the United States chamber of commerce. That report said that it would require a purchasing power of $200 per month per family to bring complete recovery to this country. Dr. Townsend made that the basis of his plan but put it in the pension form of $200 per month and retirement for all those at the age of 60 or more.

"Ten million American homes have been taken by foreclosure of mortgages" said Mr. Rhoads. He showed that the country was going deeper and deeper into debt. "The difference between a sales tax and a transaction tax" he said, "is that the little fellow bears most of the burden of the sales tax, while with the transactions tax it will include the big fellow as well, including fifty billion dollars in the big securities."

It was a splendid day and a splendid occasion, typical of a movement that has spread to all parts of this country.

Starting Sunday afternoon at 2:30, the Faith Mission, 39 East Main street, will hold a Sunday afternoon Sabbath school for children above six years of age. The meetings will last until 4 o'clock. C. E. Clements will be in charge.

*There's many a slip
Twixt cup and lip,
But who could trip
O'er a marflip?
Just make—and sip!*

HOT WEATHER DRINKS—MARFLIPS

IF YOU are having a tea party, or if you have hungry children wanting a midafternoon snack, well and good; but you really need not even this excuse for keeping a cold beverage always in the refrigerator in hot weather. An iced drink is refreshing both physically and mentally, and after a hard day it supplies much-needed fuel for waning energy.

To the class of drinks known as marflips, campfire marshmallows lend a special smoothness and seeming richness, without actually contributing any more calories than a proportionate amount of sugar. Marflips are generally made with fruit juices, so they are extremely wholesome for children, and an effective means of saving "pop" nickels.

LOGANBERRY MARFLIP
24 campfire marshmallows 1 cup water
4 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups loganberry juice 1/4 teaspoon salt

Melt marshmallows with water in top of double boiler. Remove from stove and add fruit juices and salt. Chill. When ready to serve add an equal quantity of water or ginger ale and some cracked ice. The undiluted fruit syrup may be kept for several days in a tightly closed jar in the refrigerator. Serves 8.

Many other fruit juices—orange, grape, pineapple, etc.—may be used to make delicious marflips. The important point to remember is that lemon juice brings out most fruit flavors. Many of the fruit syrups may be combined with chilled milk instead of water; this is especially a good plan with a child who has difficulty in taking enough milk.

EVENING OF BRIDGE IN HONOR OF MRS. BATES

Mrs. Hugh Bates was recently the honoree of an interesting evening of bridge, with Mrs. Aldo Parr the charming hostess.

At the close of play, Mrs. Kenneth Madden was awarded high score prize, and Mrs. Bates, as honored guest, was presented many lovely gifts.

Those who enjoyed the evening with the honoree, Mrs. Bates, were the Mesdames Roy Parr, Milton Franklin, Ted Lockhart, Dick Campbell, H. B. Bentley, Ray Clary, Kenneth Madden, Otis and Pearl Wardle, and the hostess, Mrs. Aldo Parr.
