AIR CORPS TRAINING
OFFERED ELIGIBLE MEN

Three-C men who possess the necessary educational and physical requirements for entrance to the Air Corps Primary Flying School, Randolph Field, Texas, and who are interested in applying for this cadet training, are asked to contact Sergeant Dawes at the air corps detachment, Medford municipal airport.

Interest in flying cadet training diminished during the year 1935, and there are not sufficient qualified candidates on the eligible list to fill classes at the Air Corps Primary Flying School. In the last class which started March 1, 1936, less than sixty flying cadets were entered, whereas the quota was 150.

Both the educational and physical requirements are very exacting, but it is possible there are eligible CCC men in the Medford district who would be interested in this training.

APPLEGATE MEN FIGHT
SEASON'S FIRST FIRE

APPLEGATE — Men of this company had their first taste of fire fighting recently when they were called out to fight a small fire two miles east of Joe Bar. The fire started when a brush fire got out of control.

Foreman McRea and Leader Hoshauer were in charge. The fire burned about two and one half acres, most of this being burned before the men arrived on the scene. About 40 men were used and they had the situation well under control in about two hours.

STOCKINS WINS
CITATION FOR HEROIC ACTION

The highest honor a man can earn in the CCC came to Stanley E. Stockins, of Co. 1627, Camp China Flats, when Director Robert Fechner gave him a personal citation for bravery last week.

Stockins, who accepted a discharge recently to take a job at home in Chicago, was one of ten men commended for heroism by Director Fechner. Happy Days, national CCC paper, featured Stockins' exploit in the April 18 edition.

Stockins' citation was the result of his cool-headed action in directing first aid work in spite of serious injuries following a truck accident. He is credited with saving at least one life by his work.

Twelve men were injured in the truck accident when it turned over while returning from a fire. The truck left the road and plunged down a 30-foot embankment. Several were dangerously hurt.

Stockins, company first aid man, was dragged from the wreckage with both ankles broken. Refusing attention for himself he directed the aid given the others, instructing those not seriously hurt in caring for those who were hurt—until he finally fainted from his own pain.

Stockins was commended by Major George R. Owens, district commander, and an account of the incident was forwarded to higher authority.

Stockins is well known in the district as a boxer. He defeated Jess Savickey of South Fork on the outdoor card here last July but could not fight again after his injuries were received.

RAND MEN PUT ON TRAIL WORK

RAND—Trail maintenance will be one of the principal tasks of Co. 1650 for the coming months, and a number of five-man crews will be sent into the hills for this work. District Ranger Loran J. Cooper will start training the personnel of these crews at once, and they will have the advantage of leaders recently graduated from the training course for leaders and assistants, founded on the "Manual for Instructors."

Crews will be started at Rattlesnake creek, on the Mt. Reuben road and work back into the mountains as the snow recedes. Other crews will operate on other trails, opening them up to provide arteries of travel to combat forest fires.

Clay Ramsey, forest service locator and crew of three men has been in the hills 11 miles down the Rogue river from Camp Rand, since March 24, surveying the road that will extend from the Grave creek bridge to a point of junction with the road to Eden Valley and the coast network of roads. They live in the cabin of an abandoned mine and even a 12 inch fall of snow has not served to discourage them.

OUT DOOR FIGHT
CARD IS SLATED

The recent series of district boxing cards will be climaxed May 21 when the fighters meet on the big outdoor card at the Elks' picnic grounds near Medford.

The picnic and boxing show is an annual affair. Eight bouts will be staged, with the pick of the district's fighters taking part. Tony Colon, 143, Oak Knoll, will meet Joe Luchesi, 143, Oregon Caves, in one of the feature bouts.

The last card developed some flashy new talent and several of the boys will be given a chance to show again on the outdoor card. The Elks' Lodge of Medford sponsors the CCC cards, which have helped greatly in developing interest in the sport here.

President Lauds
3-C Achievements

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special)—The 1,500,000 present and past members of the CCC deserve the "admiration of the entire country," said President Roosevelt in a message read by Robert Fechner, CCC director, over a National Broadcasting company network April 17.

"You and the men who have guided and supervised your efforts have cause to be proud of the record the CCC has made in the development of sturdy manhood and in the initiation and prosecution of a conservation program of unprecedented proportions," said the President.

"It is practically certain the camps will become a permanent institution," said Fechner. The broadcast commemorated the establishment of the first camp in the George Washington national forest near Luray, Va.

Business men were asked by Fechner to consider an honorable discharge from the CCC as a valuable recommendation for any man.

DETACHMENT HAS WORKSHOP

DETACHMENT—Under the supervision of Thad Hinkle, utilities foreman, the old utilities shed has been converted into a model shop where regular classes in woodworking and handcraft are being carried on as part of the educational program.

Except for the several pieces of woodworking equipment, the shop fixtures have been improvised by Hinkle, with the help of Eugene Campbell, utilities clerk. Several of the shop fixtures designed by Hinkle could well be taken as a model by other shops.

The power equipment includes saws, a turning lathe, bandsaw, and Dado machine. The shop has turned out many attractive cabinets and pieces of office equipment. Men entering the classes are taught to make practical and useful articles.

Agness Camp Made
Into Sports Center

AGNESS—Plans are being carried out rapidly to make Camp Agness a real recreational center. Ground for the tennis courts has been graded, the baseball grounds and volleyball court have been leveled, horse-shoe courts have been installed and a croquet court has been laid out.

In addition, plans are made to divide the camp into two competing divisions, Lt. John A. Rosenbaum in charge of one squad, Adviser Geo. Schmidt, the other. A real competitive program of athletic events is being planned between these two divisions. Later in the season, Agness men will have an excellent swimming spot in the Illinois River.

CCC MEN HELP RECOVER
BODY OF GOLD MINER

RAND—Fifteen men from this company under Lieut. Clarence Huffman were among those who made a futile effort to aid Harold Spiker, 30, who was imprisoned under tons of mud and rocks when the tunnel roof of his Joker gold mine near here gave way Sunday.

Spiker was dug out but his neck was broken and he died about half an hour after the accident occurred.

CLEAR LAKE GOES ON DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

CLEAR LAKE—Following the example of the citizens of Chicago, this camp initiated a daylight saving schedule April 1 and will carry it through the summer months.

The enrollees of Co. 3740 now rise at 5 o'clock, have breakfast at 6 o'clock, dinner at 11 o'clock and an evening meal at 4 o'clock. This arrangement enables the men to escape working during the hot hours of the afternoon and gives them more daylight hours for recreation.

Young Coyotes

CLEAR LAKE—The men here are playing nurse maids to four very young coyotes. Steve Haydu, LEM, father to three children, says there is only one thing which can make more noise at night than a young coyote but he thinks too much of his family to make any personal remarks.
