Rogers, Stewart Tops in Hilarious Film, 'Vivacious Lady,' Coming to Varsity

The troubles that beset a young college professor and his night club bride on returning to his staid home town and mid-Victorian parents form the basis of "Vivacious Lady," in which Ginger Rogers and James Stewart are co-starred coming to the New Varsity theater for a three-day engagement starting Sunday.

Other members of the exceptional cast include James Ellison, Beulah Bondi and Charles Coburn.

Current today and Saturday on the Varsity screen is the delightful comedy drama, "The First Hundred Years," starring Robert Montgomery and Virginia Bruce, plus Jack Holt in "Trapped by G-Men," an action-filled adventure drama.

AND THEN THE FUN BEGAN!

"The use of wood in automobile construction has practically been discontinued." There remains the match with which the non-chalant driver lights a cigarette at a sharp curve.—Weston Leader.

A Detroit man is advertising for a secretary who doesn't pet, paint, powder, smoke, drink or chew gum. Mister, St. Peter can't spare her.

We note that Herb Hoover, en route to fish the Fraser, stopped in Portland to put out a line.—Weston Leader.

We find ourselves idly speculating, at the primer case, as to whether and how armless men contrive to live from hand to mouth.—Weston Leader.

Richard Whitney is credited with the highest intelligence rating in Sing Sing. Well, personally, we do not feel like going there in order to beat him.—Weston Leader.
