African Exploits Of Beebe Attract Many To Benefit Lecture

Telling of 36 months of exploits and experiences in west Africa, Ashland's lecturer-explorer, Channing Beebe, held a large crowd of listeners engrossed in the Lithia theater Wednesday night during a benefit presentation of the local branch of the American Association of University Women.
"From Ants to Elephants" was the theme of the explorer's lecture, which featured colored slides, native costumes, trophies and other exhibits collected by Beebe during his sojourn on the dark continent.
Mrs. Charles M. Guilbert, Mrs. J. C. Miller jr. and Mrs. E. G. Everett were in charge of committee arrangements for the AAUW, which will use proceeds for their scholarship loan fund.

Frosts Close Tomato Harvest Season Here

Week-end frosts closed the tomato harvesting and canning season for the Ashland district and the Bagley cannery mopped up tomato work early this week in readiness for apple juice canning operations which will continue for some time.
With this year's tomato canning light, employment at the Bagley plant has been below average.

HOT ASHES CAUSE OF $400 FIRE DAMAGE WEDNESDAY

Flames, starting from a bucket of hot ashes left on a rear porch overnight, early Wednesday caused an estimated $400 damage at the Bellview home of R. L. Brantley. The loss was covered by insurance.
Climbing the porch wall to the attic, flames were whipped by a high wind but were brought under control almost immediately when the city's new pumper arrived "in nothing flat," according to Irving Brantley, who was awakened by the fire.

Ashland Selected For '39 Postmaster Meet

That Ashland will be the convention city for the Oregon chapter of the Postmasters of the United States was the information received by Postmaster John H. Fuller and Chamber of Commerce President Frank Van Dyke early this week from Dr. George Larkin, president of the association.
The state unit, with a membership of more than 700 postal employees, will engage in a three-day session here during June of next. The 1938 convention city was Baker.

PLAN BENEFIT PARTY
Ashland VFW post and auxiliary will stage a benefit Halloween party in the hall over Madden's Tire shop Monday night following a short business session, according to officers. Medford veterans and ladies will be invited.
