GARGLE LISTERINE
Prompt action may forestall trouble

Wet feet . . . cold feet . . . drafts . . . and fatigue, may lower body resistance so that germs in the throat get the upper hand and colds develop. After such exposures, why not help Nature to combat such germs by gargling with Listerine Antiseptic. Tests showed that regular users of Listerine Antiseptic had fewer colds and milder colds than non-users.

Tuesday night the Ashland Junior high basketball teams won a preliminary 12-11 and lost the main game 19-21 to Medford Junior high in the local gym.

With Alverde Monroe in a shooting slump and Buddy Provost ill and in bed until game time, the Rogersmen were off form. In previous contests Monroe and Provost had been averaging 10 points each while Tuesday the entire offense rested on the shoulders of Jandreau, Fowler and Rush.

Medford started out strong and grabbed a 12-4 first quarter lead. In the second stanza they missed many set-up shots and Ashland narrowed the gap to 14-10. Both teams played ragged ball in the third quarter and in the final frame Medford continued to miss easy shots while making long and spectacular swishers from the sidelines to bring their total up to 21. Ashland staged a desperate last-minute scoring drive which fell short of the Medford lead by one basket.

Reynolds and Leonard, Medford guards, in collecting 15 points between them, were outstanding for the visitors.

In the preliminary Ashland staged an uphill battle to overcome a Medford lead as Randles dropped in the winning basket just before the final whistle. Randles collected seven points to lead both teams.

Parker Hess and Leonard Warren officiated both games.

EXTENSION REPORT LISTS IMPORTANT FACTS FOR OREGON

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Oregon State college extension service is the theme of the biennial report just issued as an illustrated bulletin, as written by F. L. Ballard, vice-director.

"Cooperating for Rural Betterment," is the title of the bulletin which, according to Wm. A. Schoenfeld, dean and director of agriculture, "epitomizes into terse paragraphs important work rendered by the agricultural extension service to the state of Oregon."

The bulletin includes an itemized statement of the facts which have formed the basis of the extension service program since 1923. These basic facts, as listed by Ballard, follow:

1. The farms of Oregon furnish annually about three-fourths of the cash income of the people of the state from basic resources, and about one-fourth of the total accountable income from all sources.
2. Oregon's population can consume only a small fractional part of the production of these farms.
3. Markets must be found at distant points.
4. To increase or even maintain this return from farm land requires understanding of national and international markets, their

5. Knowledge is necessary of the competition from other states in the markets, including production and marketing trends, and transportation trends.

6. Production and marketing guidance is needed in adjustment to this difficult export problem.

7. Because of the handicap of distance, unusual necessity exists for the most efficient management of production and marketing practices on the individual farms, under most recently developed scientific principles.

8. Prevention of erosion and increase in fertility is always necessary to profitable production but is especially so under these marketing handicaps.
