FACTS FOR DRIVERS
By EARL SNELL
Secretary of State

"TRAFFIC CHISELING" is an insidious art which in many circumstances produces more disastrous results than openly reckless driving, in the opinion of Earl Snell, secretary of state.

While the chiseler often suffers from his own actions, nearly as frequently does he force other drivers into difficulties while he himself goes free.

The traffic chiseler is the person who seizes the right-of-way whenever he thinks he can get it, whether it is rightfully his or not; he passes other cars when he has restricted clearance, forcing them to slow down suddenly or take to the ditch; he never slows down when he is on a through street, but cuts across in front of cars which are making a legitimate attempt to get through the stream of traffic. He himself will bluff his way through other traffic, park in restricted zones, drive slowly in spots where other traffic is moving fast, and honk through crowded spots where he should go slowly and wait his turn.

Many persons are guilty of occasional chiseling without knowing that they are putting other drivers at a disadvantage. Every driver should take stock of his own driving habits and see whether he sometimes fails to give other drivers the privileges that are rightfully theirs, according to Snell.

Tip to Graduates

While daily and semi-weekly newspapers are on the decline in numbers, weeklies are increasing and Matthew Parks Vernon of the Howell County Gazette believes "there's a thought in that for the young fellows now in our schools of journalism who dream of big-time stuff, and the metropolitan centers. Some of them thought we were nuts to want to settle down in a little town and run a weekly newspaper. Maybe we were, but we're still nuts enough to like it. —"Missouri Notes" in the Kansas City Times.

John Heilmeyer, who was unable to be present. The other hostess was Mrs. Montgomery. During the afternoon Mrs. Henry Stenrud, who attended the home makers' conference, continued her report. The next meeting will be on good grooming. The hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Albert Arnold and Mrs. Lloyd Hull.

church will close Sunday evening. These services are attracting wide attention. Mr. Turnbull, besides being a speaker and soloist, is a cartoonist and draws a cartoon each evening before his sermon, generally illustrating the subject of the evening.

The evangelist is giving an oil painting of Crater Lake, painted by himself, to the person bringing the largest number of new people to the meetings. A keen competition is on for the picture, which will be presented to the winner Sunday evening.

The subjects for this week-end are: Friday, "Near and Yet So Far"; Saturday, "When the Storm Breaks"; Sunday, 10 a. m., open session of Sunday school. Mr. Turnbull will give a chalk-talk on "The Three Crosses." At 11 o'clock "The Unconquerable Christ," and at 7:30 p. m., "Two Requests—One Wise, One Otherwise."
