Laud Jackson County As Health Pioneer

Jackson county delegates returned from the annual conference of the Oregon Tuberculosis association in Eugene Friday evening. They reported the meeting as one of the most successful held in recent years, there having been over 300 delegates in attendance.

Jackson county figured prominently in the conference. Mrs. J. C. S. Weills, county president, spoke Thursday morning on "The Place of the Public Health association in early diagnosis," and Wednesday morning reported the year's activities of the Jackson county health association. Many prominent speakers spoke of Jackson county as having pioneered health work in Oregon. The Jackson county delegates invited the association to hold next year's meeting in Medford. Burns also extended an invitation. The board of directors will decide on the acceptance of one of these at a later date.

Delegates from Jackson county were Mrs. J. C. S. Weills, Mrs. Moore Hamilton, Miss Helen Bullis and Mrs. J. R. Knight of Medford; Mrs. Jack Spaulding and Mrs. O. C. Palmer of Phoenix; Mrs. Roy Stanley of Eagle Point, and Mrs. Earl Leever of Ashland.
