HILLAH SHRINE CEREMONIAL IS SET SATURDAY

SATURDAY, May 27, will be another big day for the Shriners of Hillah temple, and for many other visiting Shriners, as well as for the large bunch of novitiates who will be the center of special interest on the occasion of the spring ceremonial to be held in their honor in the Medford armory.

Under the leadership of Potentate A. B. Cunningham and General Chairman Paul B. Rynning, an especially interesting program has been arranged, starting at 2 p. m. with registration of candidates by the recorder's office in the armory.

The uniformed bodies of Hillah temple will entertain the public in the city park during the afternoon. At 3:45 o'clock the patrol, in their brilliant uniforms, will give an exhibition drill while at 4 p. m. Hillah's uniformed drum and bugle corps, located at Klamath Falls, will entertain, followed by a concert by Hillah's own uniformed band in the park at 4:30 o'clock. A social hour for Shriners only will be held in the Medford hotel at 5 o'clock, with the traditional banquet in the main dining room of the hotel at 6 p. m. At 7:30 o'clock a public parade will be held through Medford streets to the armory, where the formal ceremonies and the pageantry which the Shriners are wont to stage in honor of the potentate and his divan, and the assembled Shriners, and for the inspiration of the novitiates, will occupy the remainder of the evening.

Honor Guard Keeps Watch Over Shrine

ONCE a year—on Memorial Day—eyes of the nation focus on a tomb in Arlington National Cemetery in Washington, D. C., on which is inscribed: "Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God." That those soldiers who died in service of their country shall be constantly remembered, the United States Army maintains a perpetual vigil over the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

1 On guard at all times is one soldier. The sentry detail includes three shifts of four men each. Each shift is on duty 12 hours, then is off duty 24. This sentry marches 30 paces a minute, keeps the post for two hours, then is relieved for four.

2 While waiting to go on duty, this private answers the questions of two sightseers. He and the 11 others of his detail will serve for 15 days, then be replaced by new sentries.

3 During bad weather guards use the sentry box instead of marching back and forth before the tomb. At all other times regulations provide that sentries shall stand guard outside.

4 Placing a floral wreath on the tomb is a time-honored gesture of reverence and commemoration. Each year, in this way, many visiting dignitaries pay their grateful respects to America's heroic Unknown Soldiers.

velt had a quiet chuckle. One senator, to discomfit his colleagues, had a senate page bring a can from the restaurant and displayed it upon his desk.

In the files of the FBI (G-Men to you) are the fingerprints of America's leading citizen, Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Also in the records are the ink marks of the digits of John Nance Garner. In a jiffy these can be found in the collection of 10,300,000 other prints. The new ambassador to Spain is having the embassy inspected after its occupancy by his predecessor who represented loyalist Spain. Fastest talker in the senate is Homer T. Bone, of Washington. He is a tribulation to the expert shorthand reporters who make a stenographic record of the debates. An eastern representative, granted permission to "extend my remarks," included an address his wife gave at a social affair. It is easy to discover what senators dodge a vote. First comes a quorum call and then in a few minutes, the roll call. The members who answer the first and are absent on the second are the marked men. One senator votes only about half the time. Bureau of public roads report on the President's inquiry as to two national defense highways (toll roads) is to be printed as a public document. Every road enthusiast will want one. Foolish questioning when Umatilla dam was being considered at a hearing of the rivers and harbors committee, gave enemies of the project material with which to scuttle it. The foolish questions brought out that power would be necessary to justify the construction.

Oregon Creamery Manufacturers association protests against the new regulations which lower to 91 score Oregon A grade 92 score butter when it is shipped to California or outside the state. One large Oregon cooperative creamery reports a loss of $2000 since January 1 on account of the new grading system. Roy C. Potts, specialist in charge in the department of agriculture, insists that the new regulations are good for all concerned.

● Monte Briggs and Harry Rice of Los Angeles visited Saturday with Briggs' brother, W. M. Briggs of Bellview. Monte Briggs is a former well known resident of Ashland. He and Mr. Rice were enroute home from Seattle.
