

Toots Estes, Favorite Matman, Will Return To Armory Monday

Toots Estes, an old favorite with wrestling fans, will return to the Medford armory Monday night to meet another favorite, Sailor Dick Trout in the top event. These two boys know all the holds and will present a match to be remembered.

In the middle event Bulldog Jackson, the rough-tough egg from Portland, will meet Otis Clingman, a clever and scientific wrestler who is becoming a favorite with local mat bugs.

In the opening pairing Verne Peterson will square off with Bobby Wagner, another well known wrestler who has been absent from these parts for several months.

Monday night's show will be ladies' night, according to Promoter Mack Lillard, and they will be admitted free when accompanied by an escort. Opening match will start at 8:30 p. m. sharp.

Ashland All-Stars Bow to Medfordites 11-6 in Monday Rain

The representative team chosen from players of the city softball league went down to a muddy 11 to 6 defeat at the hands of the Medford all-stars at the high school field Monday night. Rain drizzled throughout the game and the field was a near lake of mud.

Numerous errors on the part of the all-stars at crucial moments contributed heavily to the loss and the pitching of Borcher and Walker of Medford didn't help matters any when they fanned 15 men between them. Tallis and Harris occupied the mound for the losers and accounted for seven strikeouts.

Score by innings: R H E
Medford — 313 100 030—11 10 6
Ashland — 120 000 012— 6 4 7

Immediately following the softball game polo teams from Medford Riding stables and Yreka took to the field for Ashland's first view of regular four-man polo. The exhibition was greatly enjoyed by a packed grandstand of excited spectators although only a few realized that the final score favored Medford 4 to 2 after six five-minute chukkers.

Little Iris Dodge took the eye of the crowd as she accounted for both of the California team's scores and often was called upon to make desperate stops at her own goal line.

Ken Edwards starred for Medford when he crashed down the field with countless long passes and turned in an otherwise brilliant game.

Mud was so thick by half-time that it was necessary to substitute a large rubber ball for the regular smaller pellet.

AND THEN THE FUN BEGAN!

By I TOLD YOU SO

WELL, the Medford all-star softballers outplashed the Ashland representation on the high school field Monday night to win the game 11-6, but the local lads won all the arguments.

The only real difference in the teams was the imported pitcher who faced Ashland batsmen. Fielding was uniformly rotten on both sides. But then, when you reach for a low hopper and come up with a face full of mud a few errors are understandable. The only really neat play of the game was by Parker Hess when he whipped out a rule book and lawyered a runner from third base to home.

The Medford visitation was the first opportunity many local fans had to blink at the fancy pants now the rage over there. Yep, Medford's got satin jeans and toilets, but we'll take the toilets, thank you, Plumbing at a ball park is more elemental than glitter garb and besides no he-man wants to look like he'd just leaped from a second-story bedroom window at two ayem.

According to Eugene Hamilton of Medford, polo is played with six five-minute chukkers constituting a full game. Two minutes rest is allowed between each chukker, with five minutes at half-time. The chukker period is straight time, with no time-out except when a player or horse is injured. (Which could be frequently, if mallet-swinging orgies Monday night were any indication.)

In future games, which are to be held in southern Oregon this summer says Hamilton, a larger white ball will be used by the mounted croquetters.

Many were the rodeo fans Tuesday afternoon who'd have given the last bite of their hot dog to have seen a cowband bulldog Herschel Claycomb, field marshal of the day. One of our most reliable keyhole peepsters swears Clay's horse, at the end of the day, whined "Gad, I'm glad THAT'S over with!"

Herschel's horse-talk, however, packed in the greatest crowd of people ever jammed into the high school park in many a year.

This week, following the polo game and rodeo on the high school playing field, would be a good time to start howling for turf. The granite probably will never be as hospitable to seed, if you know what we mean. Those horses must spend the rest of their time eating!

WHEN THEY PLAY!

SOUTHERN OREGON LEAGUE
Games Sunday, June 9
Glendale at Ashland.
Grants Pass at Medford.
Dorris at Gold Hill.

The game scheduled between Klamath Falls and Crescent City for next Sunday was moved up to July 2 at Crescent City with the coast town winning 8 to 3.

Dodgers, Talent Up Standings in Friday Night Brace of Tilts

In the only games scheduled for the city softball league in the last seven days, Kenny Harris, pitching for the Dodgers, turned in his sixth consecutive win when he turned the Boxers away by a score of 7 to 2 at the high school field last Friday night. The Pine Box outfit got off to a good start but a five-run spurge in the third inning was too much to overcome.

Score by innings: R H E
Pine Box — 200 000 0— 2 3 10
Dodgers — 005 002 x— 7 6 2

In the second half of the double-header Talent waded through a makeshift Rogues lineup and went home with their second win of the season, 10 to 7. The Firemen's bats cracked hard against the offerings of Bill Ausland and, although they ran up 10 errors, Bert Simmons' gang showed improved fielding.

Score by innings: R H E
Talent — 200 205 1—10 13 10
Rogues — 101 500 0— 7 6 6
