PANHANDLERS ARE BECOMING A NUISANCE AND SHOULD BE DISCOURAGED!

Although there appears to be no necessity for men to go without some kind of employment or food and shelter, an ever-increasing procession of bums and panhandlers are making Ashland a regular stop. That they beg enough to meet needs of stomach and thirst is evident, but their continual activity here is becoming a greater nuisance than ever.

Perhaps some less considerate treatment of the bums when they alight in Ashland might result in greater consideration on their part for those they pander.

For the most part, moochers and professional ne'er-dowells who depend on a gullible public for nickels and dimes to finance their wandering shiftlessness.

The time may be here to start teaching the unbathed gimme-guys that Ashland no longer will be a bonanza of soft-hearted givers who surrender their coins as the course of least resistance. Residents should resolve to say "No" emphatically and finally to the chiselers, whose presence here endangers property and people.

Hoboes and stew-bums should be discouraged from tarrying in Ashland. They are both a nuisance and a poor risk.

FORT GEORGE PROVES TO BE NO MAGINOT OR SEIGFRIED FORTIFICATION!

While the whole world watches with awe and wonder the impenetrability of the Maginot and Seigfried lines in Europe, an interesting little by-play has been taking place in Ashland, where Fort George last week showed that its armor could be pierced!

After hurling mortar after mortar of gooey printers' ink at one of their favorite targets—the enemy had made off with $1000 of the city's advertising money, snatched almost from under the thumb of the greedy General—Fort George loosed one blast that was of the wrong mix. It backfired.

Hurriedly the Commander of the Fort went into a conference on strategy; the enemy had found a vulnerable spot in the stronghold and was threatening retaliatory measures for the latest broadside that had smeared both truth and good sportsmanship.

The threatened counteroffensive was thwarted only by reluctant retribution within the Fort itself. Hurriedly and with an evident lack of enthusiasm the ink pots of Fort George were turned upon its pardon-us department and a blast was fired.

However, no good General ever makes unnecessary sacrifices and the broadside was loaded with double-soft, extra-smooth ink designed to make a loud report but not inflict damage to the fort.

The muzzle was turned the right way, for once, and the spectacle was satisfaction enough for the libeled enemy.

THIRD-TERM QUESTION WOULD BE DEAD IF ROOSEVELT COULDN'T WIN IT!

That off-stage groaning and grumbling anent the third term mystery is rapidly reaching a crescendo of raucous comedy. "Why doesn't Roosevelt commit himself?" "The people are entitled to know!" and so on and on, wherever two republicans get together.

The painful truth of the matter is that none would be worrying about whether President Roosevelt plans to become a candidate for the third time unless they thought he likely would win if he runs. Critics are less interested in preserving the two-term tradition and the nation's welfare than they are in the one-term question for the republicans.

If President Roosevelt had no chance as a candidate none would bother to learn his plans. Political opponents, by their sound and fury, indicate the great popularity that Roosevelt still commands among voters.
