Knox Buys Lakeshore Resort Near Florence

W. F. Knox, former owner of the Knox Lumber company here, has purchased a well-known Hastings lakeshore resort on Lake Woahnik and Highway 101 south of Florence, Ore., from Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hastings, who owned and operated a service station in Ashland for a number of years.

The resort is situated on a trout lake two miles by timberland and sand beaches from the ocean. On various sides, at close distances, are lakes and rivers well stocked with bass, perch, crappies and ocean fish.

Knox and two daughters will leave for the resort in June following the close of school.

Our Dead Indian Mill Starts
April 1st for the Season

For the last 17 years my mills have manufactured more lumber in southern Oregon than all other mills combined south of Medford and west of the Klamath river, and are the only mills that have run for this long a period.—ARTHUR L. COGGINS.
