Washington School News

By SCHOOL STUDENTS

In our room and in other rooms in Washington school we have banks. These banks are for the children's crusade for children. We started April 22 and are stopping April 30. The money from these banks we send across the sea to the boys and girls who have no money. We are supposed to put as many pennies as we are old in the bank.—Melvin Morgan.

Saturday my daddy and I went on a fishing trip. We got up at 3:30 a. m. We took our salmon pails and trout pails. We ate breakfast in Grants Pass, then we went to the river to fish. The first day we did not get a thing, but the second day I hooked one that bent the hook straight and got away. I gave up the salmon fishing and fished for trout. I caught six trout and one sucker.—Donald Green.

Sunday Curtis Reed, Floyd Reed, Irene Reed and I went for a walk. We were near the watershed. We took our lunches. We waded in the creek but decided it was too cold. We played around for a while, then we started home, but we stopped in the park and played for a while. Then we came home.—Harold Gillette.

Third grade pupils are learning their times tables. They are starting with their fives. I like them very much. It is fun to study my times tables.—Paula Ostrander.

My father and I went to the CCC camp in Medford to see some boys flying their model airplanes. It was very interesting. We went Sunday and there were many people there.—Mary Margaret White.

When we went to the CCC camp in Medford we saw how they had made some little animals and ash trays out of tin cans. We went to another room and saw the funniest kind of a flower. They call Glen Withrow, Charles Ferns, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brisco, Bertha Hayman and Mr. and Mrs. Barney Riggs. The evening was spent playing pinocle, high score prize going to Mr. and Mrs. Vic Mason, men's low to Mr. Collins and women's low to Mrs. Brisco.

● Mrs. Wayne Cowdrey and daughter Shirley and Mrs. R. F. Parks were Medford visitors Monday.

BILL LEEVER TO SALT LAKE FOR EPSILON CONVENTION

Bill Leever of Ashland, junior in science at Oregon State college, was one of six OSC representatives of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, honor society in geology, at the national convention in Salt Lake City, during spring vacation. The convention included field trips to the open pit mine at Bingham, the copper refinery at Alta, the Wasatch mountains and Great Salt Lake.

On their return trip they visited the science departments at Stanford and the University of California and the Academy of Science in San Francisco.

it snake plant. It had a head, too.—Barbara Kent.

Wesley Smith is taking painting lessons. He brought a picture of the Columbia river highway. It is a very pretty picture. His teacher helped him a little bit on the hard parts, but he did most of it himself.—Rex Morgan.

The 3-b and 4-b students are studying about ships. The first boat we learned about was a dug-out. The Indians burned the center out of logs so they could ride down stream. Robert Fulton built the first steamship that went up the Hudson river.—Herbie Wilson.

I went on a picnic Sunday afternoon. We had a lot of fun. We went to the woods. We heard the birds singing all about. We picked some wild flowers. We picked wild dwarf blue lupine, cat ears and some big, tall wild lupine. We had a very nice time. You should go to the woods some day yourself and just see how nice it is. You should see how beautiful it is to live in Oregon.—Mary Jane Coleman.

The fifth graders recently sent copies of the "Washington Flashers" to 27 Ashlands in the U.S.
