WHAT'S LINDY AFTER, THE SECRETARY OF STATE'S JOB IN 1941?

Again Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has cried out his beliefs on foreign policy and again many listeners wondered who wrote the words he hurled at a surprised, to say the least, nation of patriots.

Lindbergh again pled for recognition of Hitler's murder and conquest and advised Americans to accept Germany as the "dominant nation in Europe." He craftily avoided direct mention of nazidom as such, but his conclusions embraced Hitlerism, which once pinned a medal on him and probably would do it again if not for obvious disadvantages.

There is substantial evidence that Lindbergh—the famous flyer who was a national hero until he opened his mouth—is being prompted by strong political groups opposing President Roosevelt and it would not be surprising to find Lindy being considered as secretary of state, should things go "right" in November.

Birds of a feather fly in flocks, and the Lone Eagle is rapidly qualifying himself!

OREGON DAILIES GIVE WILLKIE AND McNARY THEIR 'KISS OF DEATH'

According to a newspaper poll conducted by the Portland Oregonian, most dailies of the state expressed themselves as favoring the Willkie-McNary ticket this fall. This must give thinking republicans genuine cause for worry, remembering as they do that such widespread endorsement preceded the Hoover floppo of 1932 and the Landon fiasco in 1936.

Daily newspapers of Oregon, and particularly the larger and most "influential" ones, have been traditionally wrong on presidential elections ever since the Hoover boom, and the enlistment of journalism's support for Willkie gives encouragement to democrats. And particularly appropriate was the Oregonian's taking over responsibility of conducting the poll, that newspaper being, perhaps, the champion vote-getter-for-the-opposition on the Pacific coast.

Republicans also should be chary of anti-administration "democrats" who now are flocking to their ticket. Willkie and McNary soon will learn that you can't attract odorous politicians to your camp without having some of their stink cling.

MIRACLE WOMAN FAME IS SPREAD

alysis. She reportedly has been invited to Arizona, with all expenses paid. Only recently Mrs. Jessel received a cablegram from Switzerland asking her to come there.

Does Not Solicit Patronage
"In practicing her asserted gift of healing, Mrs. Jessel accepts whatever financial reward the patient desires to donate, setting no fixed charge and treating all visitors who seek her healing help alike. Since word of her practice has spread, Mrs. Jessel treats some 200 people a day and the demand has become so great that often patients must return the next day to be able to see her.

"It is not necessary to have faith that she can heal, it is said. Mrs. Jessel does not understand her power but considers her efforts as God's work.

"Born in North Carolina 49 years ago, Mrs. Jessel lived in Baker, Ore., before going to Ashland six years ago. Her mother learned that she had a 'supernatural power to heal disease' when Mrs. Jessel was a child, it is said. When too small to reach a grown person, her mother would place her on the patient's lap and she would relieve pain and sickness by placing her hand on the patient. "When in her teens Mrs. Jessel became embarrassed when she was asked to heal and would often hide when people came to her home, she related when interviewed lately. Later she came to realize that it is her duty to relieve sickness whenever possible and most of her time now is devoted to alleviating disease. Mrs. Jessel does not pretend to be able to cure all illness and frankly tells the patient whether she believes she can help him. Sometimes she instinctively knows she cannot relieve, she says.

Son Also Has Gift
"Mrs. Jessel's son is said to have the same miraculous healing power but he does not practice, having the same feeling of reticence that his mother had when she was younger.

"Mrs. Jessel is a slight woman, earnest in her work and eager to help humanity. She is the mother of six children. This spring Mrs. Jessel spent some time in Eureka with her step-daughter, recuperating from her strenuous days of treating scores of people.

"Her treatment is simple. She places her hand on the person's body, rubs lightly. When the healing power or force is active, the veins on the back of her hand stand out prominently. The patient feels no shock, it is said, although some have been slightly ill for a day or two. Mrs. Jessel limits her treatments to less than nine or 10 for a person, according to reports.

"A large number of people from Eureka and other parts of Humboldt county have visited Mrs. Jessel's home in Ashland. Some report they have been helped, even cured, while others assert that they have experienced no benefit."
