

Ray Schumacher,
Assessor Candidate,
Of 'Pear Pie' Fame

Ray J. Schumacher, democratic nominee for county assessor, is well known to residents of the Ashland-Talent area, where he gained wide recognition and appreciation for his successful work in promoting the Talent pear and Tomato show of several seasons ago which featured the largest pear pie in history.

Schumacher, who was engaged in business in Talent and who has been in business in Jackson county for the last 15 years, last spring sought his party's nomination to the assessorship as his first bid for elective office, with marked success. He bases his qualifications for county assessor's duties on his successful business record, his study of duties and problems of assessorships and his willingness to give the office the progressive attitude of younger administration.

Schumacher has been conducting an active campaign and is expected to make an impressive showing in the general election with many observers conceding his election as probable.
