DRAFT KRUSE TO WRESTLE JAMES IN MEDFORD RING

OLD-TIME wrestling fans will be in for a treat at Medford armory Monday night when Promoter Mack Lillard again brings Oswego Bob Kruse to southern Oregon to meet Jesse James, who is undefeated in Medford.

Kruse, a master at the wrist lock, is a great favorite in Medford despite the fact that he is aging as far as wrestlers go. In meeting James, the Oswego broccoli grower will be facing the former light heavyweight champion of the world and one of the cleverest matmen in the game today.

Bulldog Jackson, ferocious hammerlock artist from Portland, will meet Cowboy Dude Chick in the middle bout. Chick is peeved with Jackson because the roughhouse northerner skipped out on him a short time ago when the pair was billed for the top spot at Medford. Before the mix is over, the fans can look for a wild bout.

Billy Rayburn, who has been beaten only by Chick in the Lillard ring, opposes Eddie Marcus in the opener. Marcus, who was billed as a clean warrior last Monday, turned dirty with Elton Owen and can be expected to do so again next week. Just what Rayburn's attitude will be toward a mean opponent remains to be seen.

The first match will go to the mat at 8:30 p. m. and once again it will be ladies night with each lady accompanied by an adult paid admission being admitted free.

51st Anniversary Play Draws Capacity Crowd

Ashland high students celebrated the 51st anniversary of the school with the play "It Won't Be Long Now" last Friday night at the junior high school auditorium, the fifth play to be given there since completion of the new stage.

The farce, written by Milton Gropper and directed by Miss Ruth Woods, dealt with the actions of a man who thought he had but 24 hours to live.

The cast of 13 students did an excellent bit of acting through all three scenes.

The high school orchestra under the direction of Gordon Tripp played between acts.

Ten Musts Named For Week-End's Gridiron Winners

Another week-end just went by when, by this column not breaking into print, the football public was not informed as to what team to back and what outfit not to back. However, the old master was right in there pitching with seven wins and three losses.

The season record now stands as follows:

Games	W	L	Pct.
90	62	28	.689

Following are 10 more games, all to be played Saturday, Nov. 23, and each a sure-fire winner, we hope:

Boston College over Auburn at Chestnut Hill, Mass.

Unbeaten Cornell over Penn at Philadelphia.

Gonzaga over Washington State at Spokane.

Iowa to beat Illinois at Iowa City, Ia.

Tommy Harmon, with a little help from Michigan, to down Ohio State at Columbus, Ohio.

Notre Dame to come back strong and take Northwestern at Evanston, Ill.

Indiana is selected to take Purdue's measure at Lansing, Ind.

Washington over UCLA at Los Angeles.

Southern Methodists in a win over Baylor at Waco, Tex.

Minnesota's Golden Gophers are a good bet over Wisconsin at Madison, Wis.

NEWS FROM Washington School

By SCHOOL STUDENTS

In room six social studies we are studying the southern states. We have gathered much material and many pictures. We are planning to prepare and eat a southern dinner in the school cafeteria.

The first grade had a very interesting time studying the Indians. They made head bands and had a very nice collection of Indian things.

Carolyn Kelts of the first grade has been absent a number of days on account of illness.

Joann Feldhausen entered 5B Monday from McCloud, Calif.

The "Washington Flashes" made its first appearance this term on Tuesday morning. Judging by the copies sold, the paper proved very successful.

The 5B's have been giving up candy money to join the Red Cross. We have 79 cents and hope to raise one dollar before Thanksgiving. A first grader gave us three cents.

Room five invited room six to afternoon. Marlys Wilcox introduced a Thanksgiving program Tuesday duced the numbers. Shirley Edwards and Barbara Messenger recited "November Cornfields." Several children gave a play "Thanksgiving Forever." Seven boys sang a song. Melvin Morgan presented a Thanksgiving puzzle. Six pupils of room six read a poem in unison, "The Quest." Marcella Prettyman and Wilfred gave a prose play of the same poem.

Donald Kruger is back in room six after a week's illness.

Pat, the canary, is visiting in the second grade room this week. He sings so cheerfully that the children are sure he is happy.

Gerald Kerr, who has been absent for more than two weeks, returned to school Tuesday. We are glad to have Gerald back in school.

Room 3 Reports

Daryl Smith has a new little baby brother. The baby weighed eight and one-half pounds. Daryl is very proud of his new brother.

Wanda Jean Parker went on a long trip over Armistice holiday. She went to Bandon, Portland and to Bend. We are glad Wanda could take such a nice trip.

Walker Grubb went with his daddy to Salem over Armistice, to see his mother.

Doris Litwiler, who has been absent from school for several weeks, will soon be able to be with us again. Doris had an operation for appendicitis.

The second grade children put some Chinese lily and paper-white narcissus bulbs in a bowl with water and small rocks. They are growing nicely and the children hope to have them blooming before Christmas.

Room four pupils are bringing articles to put upon their bulletin board. We have four American flags on display. Others are planning a display of our hobbies. Some of us are working on a stamp collection.

The following boys and girls in room five will spend the Thanksgiving holidays with relatives and friends: Marlys Wilcox leaves Tuesday for Tacoma, Wash.; David Schofield will go to Medford; Donald Green to Weyerhaeuser Camp, and Glenn Williams to Forest Creek.
