Two Local Quints In New-Formed League

Two Ashland basketball teams, the Little Sons and the Christian church, have entered into the newly-formed Southern Oregon Independent Basketball league, which is to be affiliated with the AAU, at a meeting in the offices of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce Monday night.

Stephen Epler of Ashland, Bill Schrader of Prospect and Tommy Helman of Medford were appointed to a board of governors to organize a schedule which is expected to get under way the first of next week.

Tommy White of Medford was elected as the league's general overseer. The organization will be made up of eight teams which will play a 14-game schedule.

Seven teams definitely were chosen for membership and an eighth will be selected between Butte Falls and Central Point. The clubs already chosen are, besides the two Ashland teams, Prospect, Gold Bars, All-Stars, Coaches and the Jacksonville Moonshiners.

GRIZZLIES TRAP THE TRAPPERS

Ashland high's fighting Grizzlies capped their northern invasion with a lop-sided 42 to 24 basketball victory over the Vancouver, Wash. Trappers in Vancouver Friday night. Ashland jumped into an early first quarter lead of 14 to 8 and was out in front 24 to 13 at the half time. The third period gun found Jerry Gastineau's Grizzlies ahead by a 37 to 19 margin.

Charley Jandreau, Grizzly forward, was high point man for the game with 14 and was followed by his running mate, Buddy Provost, with 11. Davis was high for the Trappers with seven.

In an article in the Portland Oregonian, Ashland was mentioned along with Salem and Roseburg as teams to watch for the state championship. Roseburg and Ashland are in the same conference.

The remainder of the Grizzly schedule, with a possibility of other games being signed, follows:

- Jan. 10—Grants Pass here.
- Jan. 14—Roseburg there.

College Five to Meet Klamath All-Stars

The Southern Oregon College of Education basketball team, idle over the Christmas holidays, will get back into harness Saturday, Jan. 11, when the Klamath Falls All-Stars will be met, with the Little Sons tangling with the Klamath high Pelicans in the preliminary fracas.

Coach Jean Eberhart was undecided early this week who would start against the Stars and had not definitely made up his mind as to who would make the trip.

The next SOCE appearance on their home court will be against Rubenstein's Oregonians Saturday, Jan. 18.
