HINDSIGHT ON SPORTS

By I TOLD YOU SO

The latest pipe dream to hit the district four basketball circuit has credits for having originated in Medford, whose hoop team is in third place at this writing.

Medford, it seems, favors a district tournament to be held at the conclusion of the regular season to see who wins the right to represent district four in the state meet at Salem.

Such a plan is employed in some districts throughout the state where towns are scattered and many teams compose a district. But in district four there are only four teams, which is one of the smallest in the state, and also one of the toughest.

The plan for a tourney would give second and third place teams a chance to get the crown and the trip that goes with it.

By adopting such a plan, the teams in the district would be able to book teams out of the loop and out of the state, a plan which Medford seems to enjoy and which has netted them a much smaller profit than their regular league games.

The tournament would be duck soup for Medford, who hasn't had a really good basketball team for a long time and doesn't show prospects of having one in the very near future. It would have real value for a team with lots of reserves, in which Medford abounds, but would be tough on Ashland, Roseburg and Grants Pass.

Comment in Ashland was hot against such an idea and Supt. Theo J. Norby and Principal Ben Forsythe went on record as being against anything other than the present set-up.

This department can see that it is only another plan whereby Medford gets her nose into the thick of things and tries to accomplish something she can't do under present plans and conditions.

Ashland, Grants Pass and Roseburg will do well to stick together and root for retaining the present district play.

Now that the district four basketball race is about over, Hindsight has watched every team in the conference at work and comes out with a team he would like to see matched against any high school bunch on the Pacific coast. Those bigwigs who pick the all-district teams please note:

Charlie Jandreau of Ashland and Earl Wiard of Roseburg at forwards; Hank Herman of Medford at center, and Bob Weaver of Ashland and Jim Finlay of Roseburg, guards. For reserve strength we would like to see Bud Provost of Ashland and Bill Reed of Medford at forwards, Bill Davis of Grants Pass at center and Ed Hughes of Roseburg and Harold Fawcett of Medford for guards.

SCARLETT AND TAYLOR TOGETHER!

VIVIEN LEIGH, whose electrifying success as Scarlett O'Hara was one of the year's major acting triumphs, now comes to the screen teamed with Robert Taylor in "Waterloo Bridge," poignant, modern romance of two people living a lifetime of love telescoped into 48 breathless hours. The new picture, hailed as one of M-G-M's greatest hits, comes to the Varsity Sunday and Monday.

TALENT NEWS

● Talent grange met Thursday evening with Mrs. Ralph Jennings present as a visitor from Jacksonville grange. It was decided the grange should take part in providing bundles for Britain. All grangers have been requested to bring whatever articles of clothing they can to the next meeting. Mrs. Charles Borg was appointed to head the committee in this work. The program for the evening opened by all singing America the Beautiful. This was followed by a recitation by four boys on "The Life of Washington." A short pantomime, "Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight," was greatly enjoyed.

4-DAY TOURNEY OPENS AT SOCE GYM WEDNESDAY

The first annual Oregon high school class B basketball tournament and the 14th annual Southern Oregon College of Education invitational tourney get underway at the college gymnasium beginning March 3 and running through March 8.

The state meet will begin at 7 o'clock Thursday night when district No. 2 winner, Dayton meets district No. 3 winner, Lowell. At 8 o'clock, Grant Union of John Day, representing district No. 8, will face the top team from district No. 5 which is undecided as yet.

At 9 o'clock Jacksonville, of district No. 6, faces district No. 1, undecided. The 10 o'clock game pits Arlington of district No. 7 against district No. 4, also undecided.

The invitational meet begins Wednesday when names will be drawn from a hat. Jean Eberhart, tournament director, announced that there will be no definite seeding of teams and competition may be limited to 16 teams. Teams having accepted the invitations are Talent, Rogue River, Chiloquin, Gold Hill, Gilchrist, Butte Falls, Central Point, Gardiner, Kerby, Brookings, Phoenix, Powers and Henley.

The SOCE faculty is busy with housing plans for the meet and college students have been selected for jobs as referees, scorekeepers, team managers, etc.

Half-time entertainment for the benefit of spectators has been arranged and will see such prominent school organizations as the Ashland high school girls drill team, the SOCE girls drill team, Grants Pass high school girls drum and bugle corps, Medford high school band, Jacksonville high school band and others.
