J. S. GRACEY

Word has been received that J. S. Gracey, former resident of Ashland, died at Yreka Saturday. Surviving are his wife and six children, Fred and Dorothy Gracey of Hornbrook, Mrs. R. G. Edwin of Klamath, Calif., Earl Stanley Gracey and James W. Gracey of Klamath Falls, and Everett L. Gracey of Berkeley, Calif. Funeral services were held at Yreka Saturday morning with the Rev. G. Richard Maloney in charge. Interment was in Mountain View cemetery.

HINDSIGHT ON SPORTS

By I TOLD YOU SO

OK, Mr. Hulien of the Medford Mail Tribune, I Told You So had his neck out last week when he condemned the Medford high basketball team. The loss of the game was bad enough but the case of suds dropped in the form of a wager hurt, too.

Your scribe is forced to withdraw his words that Medford doesn't have a good ball club but it took them a long time to get going, and then, too: Bill, it was you who told Hindsight not so many weeks ago that Ashland had the best ball club you had seen all season.

In your column headed Sport Graphs, on March 3, Bill, you hinted that perhaps the Ashland press has taken upon itself to dictate Ashland high school's basketball policy because I Told You So came out last week as being against a district No. 4 play-off to decide the conference championship.

On the contrary, Hulien, we up here are not trying to dictate AHS basketball policies but are merely following the opinions of our coach, Mr. Jerry Gastineau. Your memory should serve you to recall him as the gentleman you said was the man in Ashland whose judgment should be, and is, of prime importance.

So, was it not you instead of the Ashland press who missed the point, not to mention the boat, when you quoted Gastineau's conversation with your coach, J. Russell Acheson?

Since you weren't in on the conversation, Hulien, let us enlighten you as to what it is all about. Gastineau tells Hindsight that he talked to Acheson, alright, and told him what you quote in the paper but he would like to know why you didn't print all of the conversation. He also told Acheson that he was definitely NOT in favor of a tournament to decide who should represent district No. 4 at Salem. He favors cutting the season play down from four to two games with each team and letting the percentage idea decide the champion.

Now, Bill, in the first two paragraphs of this column Hindsight admitted that he jumped at Medford's ball club too soon, so wouldn't it be a good idea for you to come out and say you didn't fully quote our Mr. Gastineau and that he is NOT in favor of a district No. 4 tournament?

By the way, Hulien, in your aforementioned article you ordered to bet a bob as to the outcome of the Medford-Roseburg game. If we had called you, who would put up the money for you?

Christian Science Lecture

sires. But one needs to identify himself with this principle to recognize its government of harmony and perfection.

Jesus was the way-shower, who came to show us by demonstrating every step of the way out of materiality into spirituality, that we may do the things he did, and likewise prove our divine sonship with God. The Christ, which he manifested in unlimited degree, is as present with us today as it was with him.

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and founder of Christian Science, began, as Jesus did, in early youth to ponder and prove the truths contained in the Bible. After being instantaneously healed of the effects of a serious accident, following many years of invalidism, she devoted her life to gaining a demonstrable understanding of the Principles which governed the healings of Jesus, and gave this revelation in a tangible form to the world after years of consecration to this purpose.

Mankind today needs to ask itself, as in the parable of the good Samaritan given by Jesus, "Who is my neighbor?" It is for each one to examine and correct his own thinking towards his neighbor, and gain a scientific, hence a right attitude toward him, before the problems of the world can be solved. Prayer in Christian Science is affirmation, rather than petition—an intent to labor for what we ask, live in accordance with our prayers, asking for good because we believe and know that good is man's divine heritage, and something from which he can never be separated.

Mortal mind, counterfeiting divine Mind, would place limits of every kind upon man, while divine Mind, which is limitless and infinite, breaks these limitations, and pronounces man as perfect as he was created.

Finding the truth, or the right idea that meets the specific need, is only the first step. One must practice and prove it, and make it one's own. One must follow the command of Jesus, who so accurately answered the lawyer's question as to what he should do to inherit eternal life. Jesus approved the first two commandments as the right answer, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself;" but he also reminded him, "This do, and thou shalt live."

Church Agencies Helping Migrants

All over the country migrant workers are on trek. Aiding them, as well as sharecroppers, tenant farmers and the dispossessed are such organizations as the Council of Women for Home Missions, of which Mrs. Augustus Trowbridge, Episcopalian of New York, is president.

MEDFORD OUSTS AHS FROM RACE

Employing a perfectly-executed stall which lasted three minutes without Ashland getting their hands on the ball, Medford high school's Tigers eliminated the Grizzlies from any consideration in the district No. 4 basketball race and went into a tie with Roseburg for the lead.

The score see-sawed several times with Medford gaining the first basket. It looked like either team was in for a victory in the crucial clash and in the closing seconds of the game Ashland broke up the stall and headed down the court but it was too late.

Charlie Jandreau, little Grizzly forward, led all scorers with 13 points.

Already Coach Jerry Gastineau is rehearsing his club for the 1942 season with intramural games and drilling in finer points of the game.

In spite of the fact that the Grizzlies didn't win the tournament trip, they had a highly successful season with Gastineau in his first year as mentor.

Already Coach Jerry Gastineau 13 and 14 with a pair of wins over Bend here and then went on a road trip into the Willamette valley where they won five games including one from Vancouver, Wash.

Jan. 10 started the conference clash with a win over Grants Pass at the annual jamboree. Next came a pair with Roseburg, newcomers to the district, which the Grizzlies lost and then another win over Grants Pass. Jan. 24 saw Ashland travel to Medford and stop the Tigers and they repeated the feat here four days later. Then Roseburg came here Jan. 31 and dropped their first game of the season.

Next was a non-conference clash at Klamath Falls that saw the visitors highly out of form and they dropped the clash 52 to 23, but they seemed back in form in their next two contests when they again beat Grants Pass and Roseburg, the latter being away from home and the first defeat for Roseburg on their home court. The final was 41 to 25.

Then Ashland lost to Medford there but went on to stop Lakeview in two out-of-district tilts. The blow to Grizzly supporters came when they dropped one to Grants Pass there, the Climate City's only league win all season. The last of the season was the loss to Medford last Friday night.

Washington School By SCHOOL STUDENTS

Two new pupils, Adaline Gengerich from Talent and Ellanette Craig from Dorris, Calif., have entered room one.

A number of our friends are having chicken-pox. We hope they can come back soon.

The third grade has been studying the opera "Hansel and Gretel." We decided we would like to have our sandtable of the old Witches house in the woods. The House of Sweets, which in color is orchid and green, is made of cookies of various animals such as dogs, roosters and rabbits. The posts of the house and the chimney are made of candy canes, while the windows are outlined with colored candy hearts and colored marshmallows. We also had 12 gingerbread boys and girls which you will remember are all turned later into real little children again.

Room six is making murals of the westward expansion. First they have the home in the east, then the river and the flatboat, then the covered wagon, then horseback and last of all, the log cabin in the west.

Feb. 25 room six heard the story of the opera, "Hansel and Gretel." We went into room three to see the house of candy and cookies that the witch had. It was on the sandbox and had a gingerbread fence. We listened to the phonograph records.

Room six wrote to a school in Union Springs, Ala. They said they would answer our letters.

Russell Kennicott of room three broke his right arm Saturday afternoon, when he slipped and fell from a cement wall. He has to wear a cast on his arm for six weeks.

Milton Childres had his tonsils removed Friday afternoon.

Room six used the balpocicon in social studies to study the middle Atlantic states. We had pictures of New York, Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., the Potomac and coal mining.

David Caswell, Wilfred Kincaid, Raymond Graber, Cleon Garrett, Paul Morris, Norma Simmonds, Barbara Dawson, Darlene Lane, Dick Lever have been out of room six with chicken pox or measles.

Helen Flaharty started a camera club. Helen is president, Janie Simpson, vice president. Joyce Reinhold, Margaret Wagner, Patricia Dahl, Laurel Carter and Mary Lou Layton belong to the club.

has the highest score in the room. Joanne Brown returned from a three weeks absence. She had a siege of asthma. Room four had a movie on stamps. There were stamps of some of our presidents. Others were of generals and the rest were of famous men. Room four has an interesting book about Switzerland. The name of this book is "Heidi." It is a very good book as far as we have read. Room two has new girls, Delpha Jean Gengerich, from Talent and Ardith Brophy from Eagle Point. We now have 14 girls and 21 boys.
