Craters Show Power In Defeating K. Falls

Led by Dutch Leiber's fine pitching and 15 hits the Medford Craters trounced Klamath Falls 14 to 7 in an Oregon State league game at Klamath Falls Sunday afternoon. The win put the Craters in a tie with Silverton for first place. In spite of doubles by Wray, Sauer and Leiber, the Craters lost the Saturday night king's-x game 8 to 4.

In other state league clashes, Silverton stopped Toledo 11 to 1 and Bend whipped Albany by the same score. Hills Creek took the measure of Eugene 7 to 5.

In the Southern Oregon league Medford, Grants Pass and Crescent City, the only three teams entered, found themselves all in a tie for first place as a result of the Crescent City Merchants' 8 to 2 win over the Rogues at Crescent City Sunday. With ex-Crater Bob Fox on the mound, the Rogues took an 11 to 2 win over Grants Pass in a Saturday night exhibition affair at Medford.

- Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt Padgett went to Crater Lake Sunday.

HINDSIGHT ON SPORTS

By I TOLD YOU SO

While looking over the current issue of The Ring magazine the other day, I, Told You So came across mention of Al Karasick, former Russian ballet dancer who was known in the wrestling world at the Russian Lion. Karasick wrestled many bouts for Promoter Mack Lillard in Medford and Klamath Falls and was known all over the world for his mat ability. Since retiring from actual participation a few years ago, Karasick has been successfully promoting in Honolulu. One of his big drawing cards is Tony Morelli, the Mad Man from Manhattan, who cut quite a swath in Medford with his smother hold. Morelli is a villain of the first order on the Islands and all other wrestlers there are gunning for a victory over the New Yorker. He has been undefeated in six bouts at the time of this writing but has yet to meet such notables as Charlie Carr, Sammy Kohen and Don Juan Sebastian, the singer, all having appeared several times for Promoter Lillard.

Lucrative employment has lured young fellows from the other islands of Hawaii, Maui and Kauai and greatly increased the population of Honolulu. The result is need for wholesome entertainment and Karasick, has answered the demand by giving the crowds the very best in professional wrestling. And at the same time he has not increased his popular price scale which probably is the reason for his capacity houses.

His many friends in southern Oregon wish Karasick continued success in his wrestling enterprises.

Tony Morelli, who is going good in Hawaiian wrestling circles.

Bulletin Reveals Irrigation Needs

Irrigation requirements of crops grown in various sections of Oregon range from a minimum of about 18 inches a year in most of the western and southern counties to a maximum of 84 inches a year in some of the sandy soils of eastern Oregon, according to a new bulletin, "Irrigation Requirement of Arable Oregon Soils," just issued by the experiment station.

The bulletin summarizes existing data from most sections of the state, even though in some cases the information may be incomplete pending further research. One section of the bulletin deals with irrigation requirements of Willamette valley soils, in which region the farmers of western Oregon have led the country in adaptation of the sprinkler method for supplemental irrigation of intensive crops.

A four-year study of irrigation efficiency is reported on showing that findings have already been used in some cases in streamlining pumping plants and distribution systems. The experiment station began its Willamette valley irrigation studies 32 years ago when practically no farms had irrigation systems. Now some 50,000 acres are irrigated in that region.
