HINDSIGHT ON SPORTS

By I TOLD YOU SO

Our high school basketball team, heretofore unbeaten in high school competition, hit a stumbling block last Saturday night when they tackled the sky-scraping Klamath Falls Pelicans. Even if some of the things that took place on the floor hadn't happened, we still don't feel our boys would have taken the measure of the overwing boys from over the mountain. We feel our team was mighty lucky to get off with a five-point pasting.

However, a couple of doubtful decisions on the part of Referee George Harrington did do much to spoil the game for this writer. In spite of being in the best vantage point to see rules infractions, it seems that at times the officials' minds must have wandered far from the game.

The decisions referred to occurred in the northeast corner of the court where your scribe was standing on the very edge of the playing floor. The first one, in the second quarter, was an out-of-bounds play called on Charlie Jandreau who had just taken a pass from Bud Provost in the corner. He was momentarily blocked by a Klamath man but attempted to dribble past him. At this point Harrington, who was standing at the side of the writer, called the ball out of bounds, which to your scribe appeared a full six inches inside the boundary line.

The other decision in question also occurred in the same corner with the writer facing the play. This time Jandreau had taken the ball off the Klamath backboard and dribbled towards the corner. Coming face to face with a Klamath man, he tried to fake the opposition out of position, but the Klamath player grabbed and held him. In an effort to break loose, Jandreau's feet were working up and down and Harrington called him for taking steps rather than calling a holding penalty on Klamath. Klamath took the ball out of bounds and scored on the next play.

This department has no grudge against Harrington. In fact, after many years of acquaintance, we find him a fine fellow—but we do not like his basketball officiating.

Frank King Makes U of O Honor Roll

Excitement over the present national emergency failed to bother students at the University of Oregon—or perhaps made them more serious minded—for 177 made the "honor roll" for the past term, it was announced this week by C. L. Constance, assistant registrar. To qualify for this list student must make a grade point average of 3.5 out of a possible 4.00. A total of 20 students rated all "A" or perfect grades.

Included on the honor roll was Frank P. King of Ashland, who also was one of the 20 students with all "A" grades.

FIRE!

A Good Servant but A Poor Master

We wish to keep the home fires burning through the long winter months, but we also must guard against those fire hazards which make the home burn!

Above all it is important to PROTECT WHAT WE HAVE from fire loss by adequate and real insurance.

Employment Listings Renewed at C of C

Residents of Ashland and vicinity who were registered for employment at the chamber of commerce are asked to renew their applications as the files are being brought up to date.

Those persons who registered between October and December 31 of last year are requested to re-register. All files have been destroyed and new applications are being substituted.

While nothing definite has been announced, the chamber is offering its employment facilities in providing prospective employees listings in connection with the army camp construction in the valley. It was emphasized that no official announcement has been made in this respect, although efforts are being made to determine the names of possible employees.

Epler Attends Meet On Football Rules

Dr. S. E. Epler, dean of men at the Southern Oregon College of Education and originator of six-man football, has just returned from a two-weeks trip to Chicago where he attended meetings of the six-man football rules committee.

This year the publication of all six-man football rules has been taken over by the Federation of High School Athletic associations and a committee of six men will comprise the national six-man football rules committee. Dr. Epler is chairman of this group.

Most important changes made in the 1942 rules are the abolishment of the "return kick" and elimination of the "fair catch." This was done with the idea of making a more simple set of six-man football rules.

Following the business session the 15 members and friends present were served delicious refresh-

POOR LIGHTS

Are A False Economy!

At this time when we are particularly conscious of the need of thrift and conservation of resources, it is well to remember that poor lights are a false economy. Not only do they threaten your priceless eyesight, but dim bulbs and inefficient fixtures use almost as much current as the beautiful scientifically designed lighting equipment.
