HINDSIGHT ON SPORTS

By I TOLD YOU SO

Some time ago a fellow from Medford and an article in a Grants Pass paper said Ashland had a one-man basketball team which was composed of Charlie Jandreau. We noticed that the Medford man and the writer of the Grants Pass article were present at recent games Ashland played with their favorite teams. Not having had the opportunity to talk to the Medford man and having failed to notice any retraction in the Grants Pass paper, we wonder what these men think of Ashland's "one-man team" now. If there was a one-man team on the floor the night Ashland beat Medford it certainly was the Tigers' Hank Herman. Without him, it is doubtful if Medford would get to first base in the district 4 conference. And, as for Grants Pass, Johnny Gray seems to be the "whole cheese" as far as they are concerned.

From the way things are sizing up at present, we believe that it will be only Ashland that stands in the way of Medford getting a trip to the state tournament. We also think Medford will win one of their four-game series with Ashland. In fact, to prophecy further, this is the way we expect the four teams to end up when the district basketball race is over in March: Ashland, Medford, Roseburg and Grants Pass.

The sport page of the Oregonian, dated Thursday, Jan. 15, carried an article with the heading as follows: "Medford hurler may quit game!" The story was about Bob Hardy of Ashland. We would like those up-staters to know that Hardy is an Ashland boy, has been since he was born. On the same page, in the column containing basketball scores, it said Ashland lost to Roseburg 43 to 19. We would like for them to know that it was just the other way around.

Word comes from Mack Lillard that he plans to resume his wrestling matches in the Medford armory at the nearest possible date, probably around the last of February or the first of March. Lillard says he will use honest-to-goodness heavyweights this time.

NEWS FROM

Washington School SCHOOLS PUPILS

Room 1 had a "toy day" and each child brought one gift he or she had received for Christmas. We enjoyed this day. Eleven dolls came to visit us.

We are glad to have Belya Jeanne De Marrs and Daroid Snyder enter our grade.

We had a few hobbies in the Hobby snow. Donna Travis and Alan Schneider told how they started their hobbies.

Last week we saw the Goat picture and we enjoyed it very much.

We of Room 3 are very happy in our nice big room. We enjoyed our old room but often wished for more space in which to work and play.

We have some children absent with mumps and measles. We hope the epidemics don't last all year.

The enrollment Tuesday morning was as follows: Room 1, 35; Room 2, 39; Room 3, 21; Room 4, 28; Room 5, 33; Room 6, 39; Room 7, 21, and Room 8, 32.

Most of our teachers are enrolled in one of the Red Cross first aid classes.

Lillie May Freese and Glen Orton are new pupils in our room. That makes 22 in our room now. We expect to have some second graders from Mrs. Willis' room after the first semester. There are 39 in her room now.

Room 4 is studying about Eskimos and finds it very interesting. We have found where the Eskimos live, of what their homes are made and how.

We will soon begin studying transportation. We boys plan to make different kinds of airplanes and ships. We girls will learn how to sew. We will learn many kinds of stitches.

A queer poem is making Room 5 work very hard. We found that we needed a mirror to read this queer poem. Some of the words are: eht, dna, tuo and erew.

The boys and girls of Washington school are having a defense stamp contest, during language class we told about the odd jobs which we did to earn money for our defense stamps. Our percentage for Wednesday was 66.6. This is the highest percentage the fourth grade has had during this contest. The fifth grade has the highest percentage in school. We hope everyone in our room can buy a defense stamp.

Esther Fowler of the fifth grade is out of school due to an acute kidney trouble.

We have two new pupils, Fred Peters and Verma Snyder, from Nebraska. Joan Tardy from Long Beach entered our school for one week only. As her father is in government service she has lived in many places.

Since Christmas vacation men have been working on the Washington school. It has been very hard to work because of the noise. The building is now braced from the basement floor up to the roof; the belfry was removed, the furnace room fireproofed; all old lights have been replaced by new! the cloakroom changed into an office for Mr. Goddard, and several rooms have been changed around.

The members voted to give $10 to the Red Cross and to do sewing for the Red Cross as soon as materials arrive. They are having a small cooked food sale each meeting to help raise money. During the program Mrs. F. C. Homes talked on defense work. Mrs. Wade Wallis gave a reading and Mrs. May had charge of games. Mrs. Wallis won first prize in these.

TROUT SEASON OPENS APRIL 18

The state game commission, at a meeting held Jan. 10, set the general season for trout six inches or over in length in 1942 from April 18 to Oct. 31, with the exception of 12 eastern Oregon counties where the season will extend from May 2 to Oct. 31. These counties are Baker, Gilliam, Union, Grant, Harney, Klamath, Lake, Morrow, Umatilla, Wallowa, Wheeler and Malheur.

The daily bag limit remains the same as before, 15 pounds and one fish but not to exceed 15 fish in any one day. The limit for any seven consecutive days or in possession at any one time is 30 pounds and two fish but not to exceed 30 fish.

From Nov. 1 to April 17 anglers will be permitted to take trout over 10 inches in length only in those waters open to steelhead and salmon fishing. The aggregate bag limit for steelhead, salmon and trout over 10 inches in length during this period will be three in any one day with a possession limit of six and weekly limit of 10.

However, during the general open season for six-inch trout the regular daily bag limit of three salmon and steelhead over 20 inches in length may be counted separately and steelhead over 20 inches in length may be counted separately from the trout limit. Special regulations prevail on the Rogue river and are essentially the same as last year.

Changes in black bass regulations include the establishment of a minimum length limit of eight inches and a closed season during May and June to protect the spawning fish. Also, the separate bag limit for bass is eliminated and bass are included in the general bag limit for spiny-rayed fish, which is 30 in any one day of all species combined or in possession at any one time.

No bullfrogs under four inches in body length may be taken. The season will be open from June 1 to April 15 of the following year with the exception that in counties east of the Cascades the season will not open until July 1.

A daily bag limit of five fish will be effective for striped bass. In addition to the present bag limit of three for sturgeon under four feet in length, the limit for sturgeon over four feet in length is to be two.

Radio "Hams" Sought For Naval Service

According to an announcement from the office of Lieut. Glenn F. DeGrave, officer in charge of navy recruiting in this district, the navy is searching for 5,000 radio hams and amateur operators for enlistment in the new RADAR division. Accepted applicants will be used as operators and maintenance men for submarine listening devices and aircraft locators.

RADAR men will be enlisted as petty officers with the rating of radiomen second class with of $72 a month plus allowances for food, lodging, uniforms and $34.50 monthly for dependants.

Upon successful completion of a six to eight months training course, graduates will be rated as high as chief radioman.

The new classification is open to high school graduates with class A or B amateur operator licenses. Also required is experience in the repair, design and construction of transmitting and receiving equipment, or work in the field of television or cathode ray.

Lieutenant DeGrave pointed out that RADAR presents unusual advantages to qualified men, such as the opportunity to enlist as a petty officer for the duration of the war and the chance for highly technical training in a specialized field which can be used to very good advantage to obtain immediate employment after discharge from the service.

Less Speed Urged For Conservation

Voluntary speed reduction in the interest of accident prevention and conservation of automotive essentials was urged today by Earl Snell, secretary of state.

With restricted tire sales already in effect and with possible gasoline shortages due to war-interrupted tanker service in the offing, Snell pointed out the value of conserving on these important motor vehicle essentials now.

"Widespread conservation of these vital supplies, through voluntary action on the part of those of us who drive, may forestall enforced curtailment later," the secretary of state declared. By traveling at reduced speeds and by exercising good judgment in traffic, drivers can continue to take necessary trips, and at the same time conserve gasoline and tires and prevent accidents.

Lower speeds produce a saving in gasoline consumed, oil used, wear on tires and general maintenance cost. Competent tests recently showed that the cost per mile of travel at a speed of 55 miles an hour is 75 percent more than the cost at a speed of 45 miles per hour. This test was based on a trip of 1,000 miles. Tests on tire wear show that tires wear out 62 percent faster at 70 miles an hour than at a speed of 50 miles per hour.
