DEFENSE Bonds Stamps

YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE RICH to help American Defense. That's the theme of the above poster, one of the newest of the Defense Savings promotional pieces now going up in streetcars, on bulletin boards, and at other public places. This poster emphasizes the point advanced by the Treasury Department that every American can—and must—pitch in if the United States is to have the arms and the tools necessary to protect her freedom.

HINDSIGHT ON SPORTS

By I TOLD YOU SO

A new and novel idea in basketball officiating will be tried during the second Southern Oregon-Monmouth game to be played at the SOCE gym tomorrow night. The idea, from the brain of Jean Eberhart, SOCE coach, is to have a referee in each end of the gym and three men on the sidelines.

The referees at the ends of the court will be located in "crow's nests" which have been built above the baskets. On one side of the playing floor there will be an official at both corners of the court and at the other side the official will be at the center line.

The referees in the "crow's nests" will call rules infractions and will be equipped with loud speakers to announce to the audience and the officials on the sidelines. In the event of a tie ball, the referees will blow a whistle and call out to the men on the sidelines to toss it up and will designate the players to jump. In the event of fouls, they also will designate via the loudspeaker whom the infraction was on and name the player to take the free throw.

The officials on the sidelines will call out-of-bounds plays and will call any passing back over the center line.

To the ordinary hoop fan, this system might sound too expensive since five officials will be used instead of the customary two. But, according to Eberhart, basketball officials have to pass a certain test before they are eligible to work a game. The two men in the "crow's nests" will be paid while the men on the sidelines will be "breaking in."

Because the "crow's nest" provides by far a better place to see rules infractions, many fear this new system will result in too much whistle-tooting and, consequently, spoil the game. Eberhart says it won't. He says it will speed the game up by taking the officials off the floor and making more room for the players.

The second and third grade pupils in Room 3 have been watching the weather. They put a calendar on the board. They are keeping a daily record of the weather. They tell whether it is snowing, raining, foggy, windy, or sunny. They tell whether it is warm or cold.

The girls of Room 6 challenged the girls of Room 8 in an exciting game of baseball Tuesday, Jan. 27. The referee was Karna Henson and the score was 11 to 9 in favor of Room 8.

Lincoln school is having a contest in defense stamps. Rooms 8 and 6 are ahead. There is a chart in the lower hall to keep track of the amount each room has.

Glen Ingle was chosen representative from Room 1 to the Council of Students. Barbara Hill was the representative.

Mrs. Henry Galey came to Room 8 Monday, Jan. 19 and gave the children a very interesting talk on Wedgewood pottery. She showed them some of her lovely Wedgewood ware. It was very interesting and the children enjoyed it very much.

Before some of the children of Room 8 went to junior high school Arlene Gregory, Dorothy Elhart and Louise Schilling planned a little farewell program for the other children of their room. They called on different class members to answer questions. If they missed, they had to act out something, sing or dance. They also asked riddles and told jokes. Some of the children had to say different tongue twisters. It lasted from 3 to 3:30 o'clock. They had a very good time although they were sorry to see them leave.

Carmela Daly was sick with the measles. She was out from Jan. 9 to 26. Her friends were sorry she was ill and that she missed so many studies.

On Jan. 22 the boys of Room 8 challenged the boys of Room 7 in a game of baseball. The game was a tie as the score was 2 to 2. It was a good game and both sides played hard.

There are nine new pupils in Room 8. Their names are Lorraine Hoodenpye, Jacqueline Howell, Catherine Silvers, Ronald Nance, James Rose, Alison Vestal, Bobbie DeLisle, Harry Kannasto and Gerald Randies. One new pupil came from Room 7. Miss Bork is the teacher.

G. S. Butler enjoyed his 88th birthday at his winter home in Cathedral Springs, Calif. on Jan. 19.

GRIZZLIES FACE CRUCIAL CLASH

WOMEN STUDENTS ELECT

The Ashland high Grizzlies, fighting hard to keep their lead in the District 4 basketball league, will tackle the Medford Tigers on the Medford high school court tonight, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Roseburg, only 50 percentage points behind the Grizzlies, will meet Grants Pass tonight. The Indians made things tough for Ashland on their two-game barnstorming trip last week-end by overthrowing Medford 29 to 27 and coming on to Ashland to beat a listless Grizzly team 30-29 Saturday night.

The Tigers already have fallen before the Grizzly onslaught by a 28-20 score on the Ashland floor and local hoop fans are beginning to wonder if the home-town boys can repeat their performance.

Coach Jerry Gastineau says the boys are out of the slump that caused their defeat by Roseburg and he adds that his starting lineup of Jandreau, Provost, Rath, Riggs and Fowler is in fine condition and planning to take revenge at the expense of the Tiger ball club. Medford's probable lineup will see Wall, Herman, Reynolds, Fawcett and Kresse on the floor.

The Association of Women Students at Southern Oregon College of Education named Irah Farrow of Bayfield, Colo. as treasurer of the organization in a recent election. Other candidates included Olive Davis of Ashland and Lavilla Gosson of Klondike, Ore.

Verne Johnson of Medford was elected president of the Associated Student Body at Southern Oregon College of Education in a special election Wednesday. In a special election neither Johnson nor the other two candidates, Peter Barker and Cyril Sander, received a majority vote.

Joseph Spayde of Ashland was elected as vice president of the student body. His opponent was Robert Hoefs of Butte Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Burns and daughter of Dunsmuir spent the week-end in Ashland.
