HEAVYWEIGHTS TOP MAT CARD

Wrestling comes back to Medford armory next Monday night, Feb. 23, after nearly eight months absence, when Jumping Joe Savoldi, former football sensation of Notre Dame meets Andre Adoree, a 215-pound French Canadian, in the one hour main event. The match will be for the best two out of three falls.

Savoldi, who will enter the ring at about 218 pounds, was once heavyweight champion of the world and is the originator of the drop kick in wrestling. Although he is rough, Savoldi, like Adoree, keeps within the bounds of the rule books.

Cy Williams, former student at the University of Florida where he was a football star, will tackle Chief Thunderbird of Victoria, B. C., in the second match which will also be for the best two out of three falls or six 10-minute rounds.

Williams, who spent seven years on various professional gridders of the nation, will weigh in at about 230 pounds compared to Thunderbird's 225. Williams is a rough and tough specialist and is unorthodox in his wrestling manners.

Opening the card at 8:30 p. m. will be Pedro Brazil, 215, South American heavyweight champion, who will face Joe Corbett of Boston in four 10-minute rounds or the best two out of three tumbles. Corbett will weigh 230 pounds and, like Brazil, is a scientific master of the mat game.

Mrs. America Meets National Defense

Editor's Note: National defense touches every home, every citizen, and as the huge program expands in coming months, its effects will be strongly felt in everyday life. This column, based on official government information and prepared by the Office for Emergency Management, shows how defense will affect Mrs. America and her home.

Mrs. America, take heart. Whatever the wool shortage does to your next winter's coat, it probably won't be nearly so drastic as the proposed changes for your husband's pants. In the first place, the manufacturers are planning to give him only one pair per suit. And they won't have pleats or cuffs, extension waistbands, or self belts, and all measurements will be limited to achieve a fashionably skimpy effect. What's more the material itself may include a new fibre made from red-wood bark which mixes very well with wool.

Sugar rationing has scored the first direct hit on the kitchens in America. And, so far, home defense has been far from good. Housewives, panicky and unpatric, have been storming grocers' shelves instead of meeting the challenge by planning new menus and more ingenious use of the sugar allotted. Needed for the production of industrial alcohol which goes into smokeless powder, sugar today is as much a weapon of war as a flying fortress. Here are some suggestions from the government's consumer division on how Mrs. America can do her part on the home front: Make fewer desserts that require large amounts of sugar. Serve more fresh fruits, naturally rich in sugar. Use dried fruits, such as raisins, dates, figs, prunes, peaches and apricots with breakfast cereal, and in place of candy. Try less sugar in coffee and tea and stir well what you do use.

If you've been patriotically clicking away on a sweater for some soldier boy, stop—unless you are doing it under the specific direction of the Red Cross. The average man in the service is adequately outfitted by the government and doesn't need additional clothing unless he's stationed in Iceland or Alaska or sent into the field on long campaigns. In that case, the commanding officer will apply to the Red Cross, which will then arrange for the sweaters to be knitted. By this system, millions of pounds of valuable wool can be diverted to more essential purposes.

SOCE PLAYERS PRESENT "DOLL HOUSE"

THE above players are appearing in the SOCE Play Box production of Ibsen's "Doll House" which played to a capacity crowd at its premiere this week and which will be presented each Tuesday evening for the next five weeks. Pictured above, left to right, are Richard Schuchard as Doctor Rank; Miss Frances Brobert, in the feminine lead of Nora, and Ivan Nye as Krogstad. Others in the cast include Don Darnice in the male lead, Miss Mildred Schultz as Mrs. Linde, and Helen Hearing portraying the maid. Other plays planned this season include the Broadway hits, "The Little Foxes" and "Ladies in Retirement."

HINDSIGHT ON SPORTS

By I TOLD YOU SO

A new star has been casting its celestial glories on the campus of Ashland high school since Tuesday night. Chet Fowler, the guy who rarely takes a shot in a basketball game because, he says, he can't hit the basket, cut loose and ran up four points in the first half and went on to ring in 14 in the second half during that Roseburg massacre which ended in a 54-22 win for the Grizzlies.

Not only did Fowler bag 18 points, but he out-scored all the other Ashland players and, single handed, scored almost as many points as the entire Roseburg team. This is somewhat of a record for Chester, who very seldom casts off during a game. It is probably as many points from field goals as he has scored in any of his three seasons as AHS guard.

Whatever it was that made Fowler mad, we hope he gets another dose of it tonight.

The first wrestling card in about eight months, and the first all-heavyweight program in several years, will take place at Medford armory Monday night when Mack Lillard presents three matches featuring six of the best available heavyweight talent on the coast. Topping the program will be Jumpin' Joe Savoldi, who was quite a gridiron player at Notre Dame. He is said to be the guy who put the drop kick in wrestling.

The middle bout will see another former football star from the University of Florida in the person of Cy Williams. Williams not only confined his grid talents to the U of F but played about seven years as a professional with almost every pro team in the east. Cy doesn't confine his wrestling to the rules in the book but will do just about anything and everything if he thinks it will help him win.

PEP SUPPER POSTPONED

In view of the heavy schedule of the Grizzlies this week, the annual Pep Supper which was to have been held at the high school Thursday evening was indefinitely postponed.

Washington School By SCHOOL PUPILS

The safety council of Washington school met Friday. Ten boys and girls had to appear before the council because they had forgotten some safety rules.

The safety patrol boys met last Wednesday to decide about some safety rules. The boys urged the children to remember the yellow lines.

The safety patrol boys who help the primary teachers and children are J. Wray Hodgen and Billy Bisel. The boys who patrol in the morning are Donnie Cullop and Donald Green. The afternoon patrol boys are Wesley Smith and David Caswell. We have two dependable substitutes in Henry Hart and Dwight Schneider.

The Campfire girls plan to entertain their mothers at an honor tea Feb. 25. Guests will be shown the honor booklets. Miss Brasted will give each girl honor beads for each honor she has earned. Most of the girls have earned more than two honors in each craft.

Ether Fowler has been ill and out of school the past five weeks. Room 6 sent a valentine shower to David Thompson when he was in the hospital for an appendicitis operation. David has been unable to be in school this year.

Laurel Carter and Virginia Clary returned to the fifth grade after being out with mumps. Rex Morgan and Fred Peters still have the mumps.

Last week in Social studies Room 6 prepared long strips of pictures of the various sections of the United States which they had studied. They then showed these

Doing a Wartime Job

The 3,700 motor vehicles of this company on the Pacific Coast, the more than 39,000 men and women who maintain and operate telephone service, are a mechanized, mobilized army in the service of communication.

Telephone workers can be counted on to play their part in the added effort that so many millions of workers throughout the nation are making today.

While it is necessary that our lines be readily available for telephone calls important to the wartime job, you may be sure that each telephone employee will do his or her level best to give you the finest service possible under existing conditions.
