writing on paper and then demonstrated the alphabet with the aid of lights, a system developed by Mr. Cooper to simplify explanation of the work.

Speaking of the work of the National Transcribers Society, Cooper stated that all book making is done by blind people. The society has 40 people in the western states preparing these books which, when completed, become part of the society's library and are loaned to blind people all over the United States. He praised the Lions for their interest in and assistance to the blind.

A grand fantasy on "Home Sweet Home" was played by Mr. Knox as his closing number.

Lion Moffitt of the Waldport club was a guest. He is an engineer on the cantonment construction.

Lion Rev. R. W. Coleman of Medford, chairman of the Aid for China movement in Jackson county, explained the nature of his organization and asked Ashland Lions to consider this worthy cause. He said it takes $20 to feed, clothe and educate a Chinese child for one year and that many clubs are taking one or more such charges as part of their year's program.

Lion Harry Hurst was present for the first time in several weeks, announcing that he had recovered from an illness which had kept him home most of the time.

Lion Al Schneider brought a round of applause when he stated that all difficulties had been ironed out relative to the bus service and unless something unforeseen happens, the service will start Monday morning.

NEWS FROM Lincoln School
By SCHOOL PUPILS

This quarter Room 6 has new student teachers. They are Mrs. Ward of Medford, Miss Cox of Ashland, Miss Cunningham of Ashland, and Mr. Miller of Ashland. The children like them very much.

There are four new girls in Room 3. They are Mary Edwards, Klamath Falls; Patsy Hall, Bend, Oregon; Carol and Dorothy Bringle from Weyerhaeuser Camp near Klamath Falls. We are glad to have them.

The children of Room 8 had a program March 18, and invited their parents and teachers. They sang two songs, The Summer Picture, and Wee Lee Wee. Some of the children gave reports on villages, rice, tea, silk and interesting facts about China. The children worked out a play called The Water Clock. Carol Cahill told a story about the Willow Plate. Four girls danced a Chinese dance called The Green Moon. After the program, the children showed the parents and teachers the exhibits in the room. Tea and cookies were served at the end of the program.

HINDSIGHT ON SPORTS

By I TOLD YOU SO

With the coming of some sunshine (occasionally) there is beginning to be some talk of organizing a baseball team in Ashland. This time it's Russell Hawk, ex-high school footballer, who has organizing bug. Hawk contends that there should be enough material in Ashland and vicinity to make a good baseball club that could hold its own with other aggregations hereabouts.

Just where the financial support is coming from Hawk says. This department will wager the business men of Ashland will NOT underwrite another ball team this season. The merchants, kindhearted as they are, have done so many years in the past and the past few seasons the teams have folded in mid-season with no account being made of what became of the liberal donations. Good prices have been paid for season tickets only to have the season go unfinished. A few doses of stuff like this and any baseball fan gets so he doesn't want any more.

We would like nothing better than to see a baseball club formed in Ashland but would like to have some assurance that it will be able to finish the season. Ashland isn't baseball minded, as a whole, and hasn't been since the days of Curt Davis. However, if Hawk can successfully get a club together, we are all for him and he can count on our support.

It looks like Medford and Klamath Falls have been ousted from the Oregon State baseball league. Limited travelling conditions have made this necessary it is said. League officials stated, however, that these towns may organize a southern division, as brought out in this column last week, but so far little or nothing has been done about this. It's possible that Medford and Klamath Falls might get into the northern California league or a couple of those teams might be brought into a southern division of the OSL.

dent teacher in Room 8. She will teach social studies, spelling, reading, arithmetic, and music.

The boys and girls of Room 5 had a clay modeling lesson in Mr. Wilda's art class on Tuesday, March 17. They modeled different kinds of animals, and some non-living things.

"Our Bird Citizens," a sound movie, was shown on Thursday, March 19, to the fourth grade. This picture showed what the birds do for man.

Tuesday, March 24, a game of baseball was played between Room 6 and Room 5. The score was 6 to 2 in favor of Room 5.

Room 7 has completed its Mexican hacienda. They have a general store, schoolhouse, church and workers huts. They also have a Senor's house which is built around the patio. Everyone enjoyed making it.

Some of the children of Room 7 made a product map to show the products of Mexico. Some of the products were: coal, coffee, hemp, chico, gold, cotton, zinc, silver, sugar, copper and vegetables.

A trip to the park was made by Room 7. They went to see the trees because they are studying about them. The trees they saw were: sugar pine, cedar, Colorado blue spruce, fir and Western yellow pine.

Room 7 went to the library Friday, March 20. They got many new books to read in their room.

Room 7 has two new pupils. Their names are: Phyllis Ruebie and Jack Coffman. They came from California.

Kelly was elected to the state legislature in 1933 and since that time has served in numerous capacities as legal adviser to governmental agencies, among them attorney to PWA at Washington, D. C.

Tiger, Grizzly to Cross Bats Here

Medford and Ashland high school baseball teams clash in their second game in the Southern Oregon high school baseball league this afternoon on Fuller field. Also in league play, Grants Pass and Jacksonville cross bats at Jacksonville.

With the aid of seven runs in the first inning, made off two hits, four walks and three errors, Medford defeated the Grizzlies at Medford Tuesday in the first game of the season. Ashland Coach Jerry Gastineau used four pitchers. Tommy Mansfield was on the mound to start the game when Medford unleashed the seven-run attack. Quackenbush, Jandreau and Provost also saw pitching duties. Barney Riggs, who did the catching, was the big gun for Ashland batters, getting two doubles out of four trips to the plate. Gitzen, Plunley and Wray handled the pitching duties for Medford.

Jim Casey and Pedro Brazil, two popular legitimate wrestlers, will headline the weekly all-heavyweight wrestling card at Medford armory Monday night, it was announced yesterday by Promoter Mack Lillard.

Casey, who has yet to lose a match in Medford, added to his popularity considerably last Monday when he defeated his own opponent and then substituted for Chief Thunderbird, who failed to appear, and got a draw. Brazil, one of the most brilliant and colorful grapplers to appear at Medford, is noted for his speed and cleverness. He holds the South American heavyweight championship.

Pete Belcastro, Weed's Mad Italian, returns after a short absence to battle Andre Adoree, slightly rough but well-liked French-Canadian, in the six-round middle event.

Oswego Bob Kruse, long a mat favorite in the northwest, will face Cy Williams in the four-round opener. Williams, former world champion, is as tough as they come but will undoubtedly run up against some tough opposition in the veteran Kruse.

Sections C and D of the ringside have been opened to general admission with first-come first-served. The card will begin at 8:30 p. m. with two out of three falls deciding all matches.

What a man does, not what he feels, thinks, or believes, is the universal yardstick of behavior.

The best way to make two fellows friends who have had an argument, is to have them wash windows, one inside, the other outside, looking at each other. They soon realize their folly and will begin to laugh.

A man always has two reasons for doing anything—a good reason and a real reason.

Steel-Piercing Eye

Steel used in vital parts for war machines—planes, tanks, ships, guns—must be flawless, because America's fighting men must have weapons that are both accurate and tough.

1. The new million volt X ray built by General Electric saves precious hours in finding flaws. It is so powerful that its rays can pierce thick steel castings.

2. Defects in the steel show up on X-ray film. Therefore faulty materials are tossed aside before costly hours of machining have been spent on them.

3. A regular check-up on pieces of X-ray film worn on workers' wrists helps guard against prolonged exposure to the rays given off by the X-ray tube.

4. X-ray exposure needed for 5-inch-thick steel is now 2 minutes instead of previous 3 1/2 hours! Whole days are saved in examination of even thicker castings.
