Carefully planned menus do their share toward keeping us cool in summer. Use vegetables and more vegetables, lots of fruits and the minimum amount of fats and proteins to maintain a balanced diet.

New cabbage is a splendid vegetable to include in summer meals. You know that "new" in the case of cabbage doesn't mean immature like new potatoes. The heads are full grown but green almost all the way through to the heart. It's this greenness that is so desirable because it bespeaks extra content. The greener the leaf the more vitamins. All cabbage contains vitamins B and C but it's new cabbage that's richest in the elusive C vitamin. Since it's low in calories it's ideal for hot days because it won't increase the body temperature.

There are innumerable ways to serve this zesty new cabbage. Shred it very fine and serve it raw dressed with lemon juice and a dash of salt. Combine it with chopped mint and you have something else again. Grapefruit sections, orange sections and pineapple wedges, one or all added to finely shredded cabbage make a delicious stuffing for tomatoes.

All mixed vegetable salads gain interest when cabbage is included in their makeup whether they be tossed or molded.

If you cook it, use as little water as possible and cook it covered for not more than 15 minutes. It must be very finely shredded for this quick cooking.

Obviously the "dressing" of the cooked cabbage is going to determine the calories. A rich cheese sauce will increase the calory count by several hundred, a sour cream dressing adds fat calories and so on through the materials used.

Guard against using too hot an iron when you do up summer silks and synthetic fabrics. It's advisable to do the ironing on the wrong side but if you must iron on the right side use a press cloth. A hot iron yellows and stiffens silks and actually melts certain synthetic materials. Nearly all manufacturers give suggestions for laundering their fabric and if these directions are followed we can expect satisfactory results.

You can patch those broken wires in your screen without replacing the whole panel. Screen patches can be bought in three materials with the edges frayed ready to use. If you do buy new screens save the good part of the old screen cloth for patching uses at some future time.

Adam and Eve: Temptation and Sin.
 Lesson for July 12: Genesis 3:1-13; 23, 24.

Golden Text: Ezekiel 18:4.
 Strikingly the tempter is described as a serpent—which glides noiselessly over the ground and as silently strikes, sending venom into the victim. Correctly Eve confessed that the serpent beguiled her. And it is tragic enough that the insinuating nature of sin is often realized after one has been deceived.

Adam laid the blame on Eve, she laid the blame on the serpent, and ever since sinners have tried to lay the blame on others. But though the tempter deceives men, men cannot deceive God; he lays the blame where it belongs—in the heart that yields to sin.

Men have wondered why God allowed sin to enter the world. The development of moral character requires the freedom of choice between good and evil. Adam and Eve made the wrong choice and thus sin entered. The pair were soon disillusioned. Their eyes were opened but to the ugly nature and penalty of sin. They realized they were naked and helpless before God. His presence terrified them. Volumes might be written on the misery of a guilty conscience.

God drove Adam and Eve out of the garden, lest they eat of the tree of life. Eternal life in sin would be a greater tragedy than eternal death. So the pair took their mournful way from the gate of a lost Eden, but with the first promise of redemption—that their posterity should bruise the serpent's head. And in that promise of redemption, amplified and fulfilled in Christ, let us know that the sin which entered the world in the beginning may be trampled under foot by those of believing hearts.
