Noah: God's Covenant With Mankind.
 Lesson for July 26: Genesis 9:1-16.
 Golden Text: Genesis 9:15.

After Noah and his sons came out of the ark, God promised them dominion over living things. When man was created it was said that he should have such dominion; after the flood there was added reason for it. Some suppose that man had been a vegetarian but that, after the flood had destroyed vegetation, man was allowed flesh. In the lesson we find certain instructions concerning food.

Then the law of blood, it may be called, which has operated through the ages, was laid down: "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed." Killers usually meet death at the hands of others. Here again, as in Cain's time, God declared the sanctity of human life.

As in the beginning, men were given the task of multiplying and replenishing the earth.

Then God established his covenant with mankind and set the rainbow as the beautiful token of it. There is no evidence that the rainbow was then set for the first time in the sky. Certainly from the beginning the sun shining upon raindrops had made a rainbow. But at this time it was chosen among natural objects as a token of God's promise. In the past a rainbow had followed the storm; in the future it would signify that all storms to come would never sweep away man.

may the recurrence of the rainbow, spanning the sky, remind us of God's love and care, that we may believe in him and love him, assured that we are safe in his keeping.

FIGHTING MAN of the Forest Front

Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board States:

“THE production of war materials such as lumber from the woods and copper from the mines is just as important in preparations for defeat of the Axis as is the production of finished war items made from such raw materials. Indeed, without the raw materials the finished products cannot be made. . . . Lumber from every region in the United States is an important and critical material in our whole war program.”

War Research

In war the advantage is on the side with the best weapons. The work of scientists in America's research laboratories, developing new materials and new equipment, means a lot to our fighting men.

1. It takes years to build up and equip a large, organized, and able staff for research. Fortunately, industry did this long ago.
2. Long before Pearl Harbor, laboratories like General Electric's were serving their country—solving technical problems of war.
3. History repeats! In the last war "wireless" was developed for military needs—to become, with peace, a giant broadcasting industry.
4. So it will be this time. Research will help to win the war, and its many wartime discoveries will help to build a better future.

General Electric believes that its first duty as a good citizen is to be a good soldier.
