

Camp White News Items

ASKS FOR PATIENCE—Persons with scrap should not become impatient when it is not collected at once, Major Lyman V. Williamson, Camp White, Oregon, salvage officer emphasized today.

Major Williamson, in charge of the Jackson county scrap drive, said "We are making every effort to collect scrap as speedily as possible, but there is a vast amount of scrap and our collection facilities are limited."

Frequent inquiries relative to the location of scrap boxes in Medford have been received, according to Major Williamson. Scrap boxes for collection purposes are located at Dakota and Oakdale, Dakota and Peach, Oakdale and King, Vernon and Second Street, Central and Second and Third Streets, Jackson and Summit, Beatty and Central, Maple and Bartlett, Boy and Girl Scout hall on East Main, Crater Lake Highway and Jackson, Landley and Reddy, Main and Keene Way, East Main between Columbus and Chestnut, and West Main and S. P. Railroad track.

"Collections have been very satisfactory," Major Williamson said, "but we should not relax our efforts. We need every ounce of scrap you can find. We should continue to build stock piles of scrap all during our war effort. When we relax our search for scrap, we are seriously hampering the progress of victory. The steel mills need scrap, and more scrap."

Major Williamson listed scrap urgently needed as follows: scrap iron and steel, rubber, tin, copper, brass, lead zinc and aluminum. He stated that scrap is actually a raw material vitally necessary to the forging of Victory.

DEDICATORY SERVICES HELD—Over two hundred persons, many of them civilian, attended the Dedicatory Services of the Post Chapel at Camp White, Oregon, on Sunday October 25.

Presiding was Chaplain John B. Porter, to who the Services were of peculiar interest since they were his last before leaving for Chaplain's School at Harvard University.

Highlighting the affair, Brigadier General Amos Thomas, commanding general of Camp White, gave an address in which he declared that the American fighting Army of today is the cleanest army morally and physically of any on earth. Invocation was delivered by the Rev. Howard G. Eddy of Ashland and Dedicatory Address by the Rev. Louis C. Kirby, president of the Medford Ministerial Association. The dedicatory act was performed by Chaplain George C. Pearson of Camp White, and the Benediction was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Bender of Central Point, Oregon. Lt. James T. Steele of Camp White sang a solo.

HALLOWEEN DANCE—Over 1100 soldiers and 400 girls attended the Halloween dance Thursday night October 29, at the Camp White, Oregon, Sports Arena. The outstanding enlisted men's affair since the beginning of the Camp, Highlights of the dance were the introduction during the evening of General Amos Thomas, commanding general of Camp White, and a floor show which included the Commando girls group from Klamath Falls, Oregon, and several singing and dancing artists.

The mammoth Sports Arena was decorated in a Halloween manner and music for the affair was furnished by the well-known Engineers Band. Men came dressed in fatigues and girls for the most part wore prints. There were specialty acts, in addition to the floor show, and coffee and doughnuts for refreshments.

Corporal Don Safford acted as master of ceremonies. Dancing was from eight to twelve.

COURSES OFFERED—The opportunity for soldiers to further their education by correspondence study was announced today from Headquarters, Camp White, Oregon. The Army Institute offers correspondence courses to all enlisted men who have been in active service for four months or more, the announcement said. The enrollment fee is $2.00 per course, and courses offered include the Sciences, Business, Mechanics, English Social Studies, Mathematics, Electrical course, and Civil and Architectural course such as surveying, structural engineering, carpentry, etc.

Various universities and colleges, recommended by the Army Institute, also offer courses to soldiers, the announcement said. The rates on these courses vary according to the subject. In Oregon, the Oregon State System of Higher Education offers correspondence courses. Information concerning correspondence study may be obtained at the Special Services Office at Camp White, south Headquarters Building.

Harold Nelson, Salem, is chairman of the student committee in charge, and Corwin McLain, Corvallis, in charge of entertainment.

Paper Plates O. K. If Used But Once

A certain restaurant owner partly solved the dish washing phase of his labor problems by substituting paper plates for the ordinary serviceware. Which would have been well and good, had it ended there.

But soon the state department of agriculture received complaints that customers at this place were being served on paper plates that bore the marks of previous use.

Investigation was made and the amazed field man soon informed the restaurant proprietor that state sanitary regulations don't tolerate trying to stretch the normal life of a paper plate.

Seasonality Law to Affect Jackson Co. Concerns

Clatsop county with 30 has the most seasonal firms under the new determinations just completed by the State Unemployment Compensation Commission, but Marion county's 22 concerns operating seasonally employ the most workers, 7,405.

Although the number of seasonal firms in the state was cut from 346 to 239 this year, Clatsop lost only one concern, while Multnomah county's 48 seasonal firms decreased to 29, employing 6,889 persons. Employees of seasonal concerns total 34,016 in Oregon.

The 1941 seasonality law, which affects only those concerns which operate at less than 45 per cent of peak pay rolls, does not affect any firm in four counties—Gilliam, Grant, Harney and Jefferson. For Jackson county 16 concerns with 725 employees are affected. Unemployment benefits for seasonal employees are restricted during the off-seasons.

Opportunities for Officer Training Explained

SO. OREGON COLLEGE OF EDUCATION, Ashland, Oregon (Spl) November 2—A joint Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Marine Officers Board appeared before the male students of the Southern Oregon College of Education Friday, October 30. The purpose of this assembly was to explain to the men students of the college the opportunities for officer training under the pre-induction program of the college.

Ensign Anderson spoke for the Coast Guard Service and explained the Navy V-1 and Navy V-7 programs. Captain Prunty explained the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps program. Lieutenant Warren, representing the Navy, indicated how the Navy planned to procure flying officers under the V-5 program. The Army Air Force was represented by Lieut. Sarason, who advised the men on the opportunities offered by the United States Air Corps to qualified men. Captain Torrence, representing the United States Marine Corps, explained to the men the type of young man the Marine Corps was anxious to enlist. Captain Torrence in concluding the program also gave a most stirring talk on the need of all military services for competent and courageous college men in order to bring the present war to a successful conclusion for the United States.

The joint procurement board will return to the college campus Monday, November 16, for the purpose of giving mental and physical examinations to all college men who have elected to enlist in one of the reserve programs in the general pre-induction program of the college.

Any man under the age of 25 who is a college graduate who has had at least a year of training in college mathematics or who can complete a course in trigonometry by January will be eligible for enlistment in the Navy V-7 program, according to Ensign Anderson.

For further information on the V-7 program or any reserve program, individuals are urged to contact Marshall E. Woodell, Liaison Officer at the Southern Oregon College of Education, Ashland, Oregon.

Dunsmuir Foe For Grizzlies on Local Gridiron Friday Eve

With three losses and one win charged on their season record, the Ashland high Grizzlies football team will come back to Walter Phillips field next Friday night to battle Dunsmuir in a non-conference game. The California club hasn't done so well in the Northern California league this season and should be a good match for Roland Parks' boys.

Word comes that the Grizzly camp that the Ashland outfit is more than angry at their miserable showing so far this season and now claim to have the kinks ironed out. They aren't promising to win from Dunsmuir but say they will not let the home folks down again. Coach Parks has spent a busy week drilling the team in new plays and polishing up the old ones and a different outlook is being held at the high school.

Parks says, with the exception of Ken Caton who is hospitalized the team is in good shape with strengthened reserve material ready to take over at a moment's notice.

The reserves have had two games with Central Point for experience and some of them are knocking hard at the door of first string berths.

Friday night's game will be the second home appearance of the Grizzlies with the third and final showing scheduled for November 13 against Medford for the conference cellar position. Friday's game will start at 8:15 p.m.

ONLY A FEW DAYS

Only a few days remain in which to apply for three positions to be filled soon by the State Unemployment Compensation Commission and U.S. Employment Service. Applications for the examinations which are to be given November 21 in several Oregon towns, must be filed not later than next Monday, November 9, with Prof. William Griffith, Supervisor of Examinations 701 Spalding Building, Portland. Junior employment officers are to be selected for 22 local offices while the collection attorney and hearing stenographer will work in Salem. Pay runs from $140 to $250 a month.

Some one ought to start a "shortage of commercial printing"—we would welcome the rush.

CITY OFFICIALS ELECTED TUES.

In the race for city council, Lloyd Selby was high man, polling a total of 819 votes. W. J. Daugherty was second with 798 and J. A. Putman was third with 747. W. J. Crandall was fourth in the three-man contest with 666 votes. Daugherty and Crandall were candidates for re-election.

These candidates were re-elected without opposition: J. Q. Adams, City Recorder; Gertrude Biede Easterling, treasurer; W. W. Robison, R. E. Detrick and Louis Dodge, Park Commissioners.

Resolutions Adopted at War Emergency Meet

At a War Emergency Conference for School Administrators held in Salem October 26 and 27 the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

1. There be more state support of education.
2. The Federal Government work through the state departments of education.
3. The High School Victory Corps be adopted and adapted to the local school situation.
4. Pre-induction training shall be provided for high school juniors and seniors. Federal funds should be made available for additional costs.
5. There shall be increased emphasis of the physical fitness program of the public schools.
6. Length of the school program shall be maintained and care should be exercised in determining what constitutes an employment emergency.
7. High schools should grant up to two units or four credits for military service.
8. Certification requirements of teachers be so adjusted that in an emergency it will be possible to qualify teachers who have the proper training and qualifications for positions in Oregon schools.
9. The proper military and governmental authorities should consider and determine the deferment of instructors essential to the educational program in its relation to the war effort.

SIGN OF TIMES

A poster on a 1929 automobile parked at a curb in Detroit, Mich.: "Do not collect this scrap—I still drive it."

THIS AND THAT (By Old Timer)

To the Editor:

No doubt some of the defeated candidates entertain feelings akin to that of an editor friend of mine who figured as an "also ran" in an election. Queried as to how he felt, he replied: "I feel like Lazarus; I've been licked by dogs."

Civilians sacrificed their trouser cuffs as a war economy to save wool. However, the barn door front and bell bottomed trouser of the navy lads remains unscathed.

Goering warns the Germans of the scarcity of meat. Uncle Zeke opines he'd like to prepare them for the west—only there isn't any.

Mussolini has discovered that if you bet on the wrong side in war, you don't get a chance to hedge.

A noted English woman suggests that Hitler should get married. And so, no doubt, carry the war right into his home.

Everyone must do his bit, but so far no man has started knitting socks for the W.A.A.C.

When that Second Front is cooked by the Allies, it will not be to Hitler's taste.

"Time Tempers All Things", said the philosopher. How about razor blades?

Old King Winter wreathed Old Grizzly's brow in white Tuesday.

Roses are red, violets blue, sugar is scarce and coffee soon, too.

Verily, many are called and few are chosen.

Don't forget to pay that election bet.

Ashland U. S. O. Center

(Miner Photo-Eng.)

U S O Center, located in the heart of Ashland's beautiful City Park known as Lithia Park, a mile long and is entered from the Plaza in the City of Ashland, dotted with Lithia Water fountains all through the Park, with spacious lawns, woodland lakes and streams, bridle trails, banks of brightly colored flowers, paths, grottos and a Zoo which makes the U S O a haven of beauty for our soldiers here at Camp White, who all marvel at it. These Boys are from the east, south and middle west and never dreamed of going to a Garden of Paradise that we have here, also the fine treatment they receive at the Headquarters of the U.S.O. Mothers need never fear of their Boys going astray or getting lonesome.
