GEMS OF THOUGHT FAILURE OR SUCCESS

When unconscious of a mistake, one thinks he is not mistaken; but this false consciousness does not change the fact, or its results; suffering and mistakes recur until one is awake to their cause and character.—Mary Baker Eddy.

I find the great thing in this world is not so much where we stand as in what direction we are moving.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

How much easier our work would be if we put forth as much effort trying to improve the quality of it as most of us do trying to find excuses for not properly attending to it.—George W. Ball.

Failure indicates that energy has been poured into the wrong channel.—D. Brande.

PELICANS RUN WILD, TROUNCE GRIZZLIES

Coach Wayne Scott's Klamath Falls high school basketball team ran Ashland's Grizzlies all over the place to win 45-35 Friday night and 35 to 27 Saturday night on the Klamath court. The pair of losses made it three in a row for Ashland, Medford having started the downhill trek here last Tuesday night.

According to the reports, the Pelicans used an exceptionally fast break on the Grizzlies in the first game and had their tongues hanging out before things were nicely started. In the second game, Ashland's defense was tighter and the Pelicans had more trouble getting through.

The two teams meet here February 12 and 13.

HUMBLE GRIZZLIES FACE CAVEMEN HERE FRIDAY, MEDFORD THERE TUESDAY

Basketball conference standings:

Team	W	L	Pct.
Grants Pass	4	2	.667
Roseburg	4	2	.667
Ashland	2	4	.333
Medford	2	4	.333

Twice stopped by the Grants Pass Cavemen, the Ashland Grizzlies will try again Friday night when the two teams meet on the Ashland junior high floor. The game, to be followed by a preliminary, will start about 8 o'clock.

On paper, Jerry Gastineau's team has a chance of upsetting the high-flying Cavemen this time. Ashland has twice beaten Roseburg, who in turn, halted Grants Pass in a brace of games last week.

Each having won four games, Grants Pass and Roseburg are tied for the leadership of the league with Medford and Ashland tied for second place with two wins apiece. Ashland and Medford will clash on the Medford court Tuesday night to break their tie.

HERE FOR TWO GAMES

Humboldt State's basketball team from Arcata will invade the lair of Coach Jean Eberhart's Southern Oregon College of Education quintet for two games in the local college gym Friday and Saturday nights.

In a previous two-game series at Arcata Humboldt won the first by 15 points but the Sons took the second one in a close contest.

Coach Eberhart says his team is in fine shape after their grueling go with the Harlem Globetrotters and are eager to come out on top in the Humboldt series.

This presents an excellent chance for Ashland fans to witness some fine college basketball.

SOCE REGISTRATION DECREASES THIS TERM

At the close of registration for the winter term a total of 142 students had registered at the Southern Oregon College of Education. This is a decrease of 36 per cent over last year's total of 221 for the same term.

The enrollment of men students dropped 44 per cent as opposed to a decrease of women students of 30 per cent. Most of the 47 men students now enrolled are currently enlisted in some reserve program.

First-year students totaled 53 and is a decrease of 46 per cent; second-year students totaled 49, a decrease of 19 per cent; third-year students totaled 14, a decrease of 71 per cent.

In the lower division and teacher education groups, 86 students are classified as junior college and only 56 are classified as teacher education. Junior college students dropped only 8 per cent where the teacher education group dropped 56 per cent.

This term a total of 41 different students are enrolled in the Secretarial Science curriculum.

OCD Official Likes Food Guarding Plan

Something unusual in the way of civilian organization to protect foodstuffs in event of attack by gas was unfolded to Major G. E. Arnold, office of civilian defense, San Francisco, when he conferred recently with chemists of the foods division of the state department of agriculture.

Major Arnold learned that the division fieldmen, subject to call day or night, have received careful instruction in what to do to guard foods in case of raid. These men are scattered over the state and have first-hand knowledge of location of all food stores in their section. Volunteer committeemen, mostly engaged in food handling, have been chosen to work with the fieldmen.

Major Arnold said he was impressed with possibilities of tying such a set-up as the Oregon department has into the civilian defense picture.

Miss Mary Jean Hendricks was chairman of the meeting. Work for the coming month will be mapped out by the smaller groups, and announcements of their plans will be issued later.

The USO weekly bulletin was distributed over town as usual Wednesday by members of the Camp Fire group. This month the Junior High school group directed by Frances Wort will do the service. Last month it was done by the Camp Fire girls of the Washington school under direction of Doris Hitchcock.

The bulletin, from its printing to its distribution, represents the attention of a wide group of volunteer workers. Miss Marian Aley of the College art department drew the decorative designs. Mrs. Frances White of the college secretarial department directed the typing and mimeographing. Miss Fay Harkins addressed those copies sent to a specified list of officers at Camp White.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINTS

The Government Regulates Bread

By Dr. James A. Tobey

Dr. J. A. Tobey

REGULATION of American bread was the first official action taken by the newly appointed Food Administrator of the Federal Government. Because of the increased importance of bread in our wartime diets, such immediate action was a logical first step.

Consumers will be interested in knowing how they are affected by this order, which was issued on December 29, to take effect on January 18, 1943. On the whole, they will be benefited by it.

Perhaps the most significant provision in this order is one requiring that hereafter all white bread shall be enriched. This means that every loaf of the twelve billion or more pounds of white bread produced annually by American bakers will contain extra vitamins and minerals natural to whole wheat.

At the end of 1942 about 70 per cent of all our white bread had been thus enriched by voluntary action of the bakers, who are also bearing the expense of this improvement in our staff of life. Enriched bread remains one of our most economical and abundant foods.

In addition to its food-energy values and body-building proteov, enriched bread contains the important B vitamins, thiamine, riboflavin, and niacin, as well as iron, calcium, and phosphorus. For all practical purposes, it is virtually equivalent to whole wheat bread in dietary properties.

The federal order puts limits on the amount of milk solids, shortening, and sugar in white bread, limits which many experts consider somewhat too low. An increase in the quantities of these valuable ingredients has been under consideration, and they may be raised, as would be desirable.

Milk, for example, is a most valuable nutrient in modern bread, which adds to it vitamin B₆, calcium, and excellent protein. Instead of the four per cent milk allowed in the original order, six parts is better.

Other provisions in this order reduce the number of varieties of bread a baker can produce, eliminate slicing of bread by bakers, and prohibit certain practices such as returns of stale bread.

Home slicing of bread should be no hardship. Unsliced bread keeps better. Homemakers should, however, be careful not to cut themselves.

SOME SENSE

SCALE NONSENSE

"Father, what is meant by the term 'diplomatic phraseology'?"

"My son, if you tell a girl that time stands still while you gaze into her eyes that's diplomacy. But, if you tell her that her face would stop a clock, that isn't."

The two best subjects for conversation are talking shop and making love.

A gentleman in the optical business was instructing his son in the technique of chiseling a fair and honest price out of a customer. He said, "Son after you have fitted the glasses to a customer, and the customer asks, 'What's the charge?' you should say:

"The charge is ten dollars." Then pause and watch for the flinch.

"If the customer does NOT flinch, you say: 'That's for the frames; the lenses will be another ten dollars.'"

"Then you pause again—but this time just slightly—and again you watch for the flinch."

"If the customer doesn't flinch, you say, 'Each.'"

You can't kiss a girl unexpectedly. The nearest you can come to it is to kiss her sooner than she thought you would.

"How kind of you," said the girl, "to bring these lovely flowers. They are so beautiful and fresh. I believe there is some dew on them yet."

"Yes," stammered the young man in great embarrassment, "but I'm going to pay it off tomorrow."

"Hello, Coach."

"I thought you were not to drink while in training."

"What makes you think I've been drinking, Coach?"

"I'm not the Coach."

The Oregon Council, American Pioneer Trails Association which formulated the plan, and the Centennial Advisory Commission appointed by the governor of Oregon, have passed this on to the teachers of America who will be interested in this great national observance to purpose of the Oregon Plan is to teach Americanism to Americans through activities.
