Private Papers Of a Cub Reporter:

He was one of the very first members of the RAF's Eagle Squadron, the group of Americans who fought Hitler before the U. S. decided to take him on... The records of the RAF reveal that he is credited with shooting down 46 enemy planes with "63 probables"... After the squadron decided to permit Yanks to enlist in the U. S. forces, he saw action in North Africa... Now he is a student at the Officers' Candidate School at Miami—"to learn how to fight!"... But wait... That's not the story... His hometown board has him posted for draft evasion!

The story about the soldier who turned up months after the War Dep't had officially declared him dead brought this... A Hollywood lad ran away from home as a kid, and soon after his father died. The parent's estate couldn't be settled without locating the prodigal son. The family tried every method, but when the legal waiting period elapsed and he failed to show up, he was declared legally dead... The "dead man," it appears, who had been abroad, returned to the U. S., made a career for himself in Hollywood and now spends his leisure weighing the advantages against the disadvantages... Of course, he cannot vote—but he doesn't pay any taxes!

Some of us think we've solved the riddle about all the wild rumors sweeping our armed forces and nation—many of which are credited to this broodcaster... Particularly the recent rumors, viz: "Did you ever say the war would end in 45 days? Didn't you say our base was a concentration camp? And didn't you say Deanna Durbin, Bette Davis and Judy Garland were killed in a plane crash flying to entertain troops?"

In the Satevepost for Nov. 21st, 1942, an article titled "Hitler's Short-Wave Rumor Factory" reveals that an American in Berlin named Joe Scanlon plays American recordings and then—"shouting breezily, says: 'Hello Folks! This is Station Debunk bringing you the inside dope from everywhere!'"... The American Nazi prefaces his bulletins with: "Flash!" and then offers depressing stories of disasters to American troops, etc... Says the Satevepost: "For the next few minutes the technique, though not the content, is reminiscent of Winchell."

Incidentally, the Nazis' secret weapon was revealed by Hitler long ago, but few of us remembered that he once said: "All I need for a war are planes, tanks and loudspeakers!"

Notes of an Innocent Bystander:

The Wireless: Quent Reynolds showed the Germans no mercy on the Forum arguing. He saw the suffering that the war criminals caused, and he wants them paid off the way they've asked for it. Walter Millis, H-Trib editorialist, is for easing up—claiming we can't build a new world on hate... "Soldiers of the Press" is a wall-py drama-tization of UP staffers at the battlefields. Its lingo is a joy, crisp and soldierly, and probably very McCoy. Henry Gorrell's strafing by the Stukas was a hair-raiser... Raymond Gram Swing should repeat his informative and common-sense piece on what lend-lease means. Too many empty-heads are still yapping that they haven't got sugar for their berries because foreigners are heaping it on bread—when they have bread. Their dumbness is too great to be natural. They seem to be coached in it... Bing Crosby's show is friskier and funnier since he shaved it to thirty minutes. The halving gives him fewer dead-weight guests to tote on his back.

The Magazines: There's a lot of debating going on about how many of the Germans are guilty of their country's crimes against the world. Gerard Swope enlightens a lot of us in Free World with his piece, "The Futility of Conquest." He includes this eyebrow lifter: "Prussia in Germany is the center of the disease of war and has been for over two hundred years"... Woolcott's last piece (Reader's Digest) starts: "This article is a step—perhaps the final one..." The very last word is "cemetery"! The sort of story he liked writing... George Washington was nobody's sissie, but he addressed love poems to his lovelies, according to Encore, which reprints one. George was torching plenty when he picked up his quill, judging from the opening words: "O ye Gods."

Doodlings: Dudley Field Malone who portrays Churchill in a new film was an outstanding child actor. Recited Shakespeare's "Richard III" in grammar school... Harry Richman, whose theme song is "I Love a Parade," has his slumbers disturbed each sunup by singing soldiers on the march near his Miami Beach home... Skimming back over the files you find out that some of the loudmouths in and out of congress who yelled for a second front once got into a lather about sending troops on foreign soil.

Immortal Patriotism Is Blessed Heritage

Show me a country where every man is a father, and every father the owner of his own land, where every house is a home, where around every fireside at night is the influence of song and a mother's face, visions dropped from the benedictions of God; show me a land sacred and secure in the valor of such citizenship, ruling themselves by the grand principles of intelligent and patriotic equality of all men, and I will show you a patriotism the allied armies and navies of a hundred worlds like this would never destroy.

A man will die for the home he loves, and in death will tell his boy to take the sword from his dying hand.—John E. Burton.

Vocal Cords, Heft, Legs To Weather 'Covered'

The Lloyds of London, famous for underwriting policies insuring the legs of dancers, the vocal chords of singers, the heft of circus fat ladies, etc., have also insured the weather. One Hollywood film production insured itself against all kinds of weather except snow for a "shot" in the mountains where snow was vital. Theater managers in England insure the royal family against death because this event closes the theaters during a period of national mourning.

One thing a soldier is afraid of is a display of emotion. That's why his slang so often sounds derogatory. For example, he refers to the silver eagles on his colonel's shoulder straps as "buzzards." But when he speaks of his favorite cigarette, he says: "Camels." They're first with men in the Army as well as with Sailors, Marines, and Coast Guardsmen. (According to actual sales records in servicing men's stores.) A gift of a carton of Camels is always well received. Local tobacco dealers are featuring Camel cartons to send to any member of our armed forces. Hint for the day: Send "him" a carton of Camels.—Adv.

And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par
It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.
