STUNTS WITH PAPER TRIMS MAKE HOMES MORE LIVABLE

Armed with a paint brush and a few rolls of those new self-sticking paper trims, ingenious housewives can work all manner of decorating miracles — and do it at amazingly low-cost, according to local paint experts. And with wartime shortages of skilled help, it's good news that housewives themselves can carry the torch against dowdy homes.

Among the home-rejuvenating stunts suggested by George Chew of the Ashland Lumber Company, where these new trims are on display, are dressing up an old chest with enamel and trim strips, tying groups of windows together with a trim border, adding a decorative border at wall-and-ceiling juncture in plain painted rooms, and pepping up old lamp-shades, mirrors, and even waste-baskets.

Applying the strips-called Kem-Tone Trims—is simplicity itself. They are already gummed, and a minute's soaking in warm water makes them ready for use. You just stick 'em on, smooth 'em and they're on to stay. Keep them clean with soap and water—the colors are waterfast.
