OUR DEMOCRACY — by Mat

TOMORROW WILL BE ANOTHER DAY.

"A GRASSHOPPER SANG THROUGH THE SUMMER WHILE AN ANT STORED GRAIN. 'WHY DO YOU NOT ENJOY YOURSELF AS I DO,' THE GRASSHOPPER ASKED, 'WHILE THIS FINE WEATHER LASTS? WINTER IS TIME ENOUGH TO SAVE.' 'IN WINTER,' THE ANT REPLIED, 'WHEN THERE IS NO MORE GRAIN, THERE IS TIME ENOUGH FOR SINGING. BETTER TO SAVE NOW AND SING TOMORROW THAN SING NOW AND TOMORROW REGRET.'" — OLD FABLE.

IF WE SPEND MONEY HEEDLESSLY TODAY WE MAY FIND OURSELVES NEEDING IT TOMORROW. BUT IF WE SAVE TODAY, THROUGH WAR BONDS, LIFE INSURANCE AND SAVINGS ACCOUNTS - WE NOT ONLY HELP TO FINANCE THE WAR AND KEEP PRICES DOWN - WE ARE STORING UP FOR OUR FUTURE SECURITY.

Endorse Religious Education Week

CHICAGO - - Expressing the hope that there will be "quickenings of the spirit of religion as a result of the observance," President Franklin D. Roosevelt has endorsed the nation-wide observance of Religious Education Week, September 26 to October 3, in a letter addressed to Roy G. Ross, general secretary of the International Council of Religious Education, sponsor of the 13th annual observance.

"In the days of trial which still separate us from victory," reads the President's letter, "in the years of momentous decision which will fix the duration and character of the peace, we must avail ourselves to the full of our spiritual heritage."
 Ninety per cent of American Protestant churches will participate in community-wide activities during Religious Education Week through the 42 denominations, 31 state councils and 79 city councils of churches and religious education which are members of the International Council of Religious Education. Dr. Ross stated in making the announcement concerning the President's letter of endorsement.

Calling attention to the fact that America is the "arsenal of democracy" because of its war production, President Roosevelt declares in his letter, "this accomplishment, great as it is, will not suffice to gain us that just and durable peace for which we strive unless we prove also that we are an arsenal of spiritual values."
 "Unless we have faith in freedom, in brotherhood and in the rational direction of life, a faith undismayed by all obstacles, our labor and our sacrifices in the present struggle must assuredly be in vain."
 "We need to remind ourselves and to remind our fellows that the common man is in sober truth fashioned in the image of divinity," the President's letter concludes.

Actually, although appearing meek as fifth columnists, clothes moths too are vicious saboteurs, invading American homes and destroying some $200,000,000 worth of woollens and furs every year. Such wholesale invasion assumes major importance as wool shortages loom on the consumer horizon because of government priorities.
 So, homemakers are urged to become combat troopers against this form of sabotage by killing all the clothes moths they see flying around. These flying millers actually don't damage clothing but if left alive, they lay eggs inside pockets, under lapels, under turned down collars and turned up cuffs anywhere at all they can find a nice woolly bed!

Flying moth millers can't use winter woollens for a nesting place when garments are thoroughly cleaned and then stored in a modern cedar chest which has a bona fide insurance policy against moth destruction.

Once laid, these eggs hatch into destructive larvae whose pillage and plunder leave a scorched earth trail on our best blankets, furs, suits and other woollens.
 Preservation of all woollens means putting part-wool things safely in cedar chests right along with the heavier, bulkier all-wool articles such as blankets, overcoats and the like. So, keep an alert eye ready to spot, and include, all those pretties which have a little wool mixed with other fibers in your wool preservation plans.

For absolute moth protection, all stored articles not only must be put away thoroughly clean but must be placed in "air tight" containers impervious to the type of damage which permits accidental tears to develop and open a doorway for moth invasion.

For use in the home, the very safest of all such containers is the cedar chest made of 70 per cent red cedar heartwood. This type of container not only is constructed to give guaranteed moth protection but is so styled and finished that homemakers have a handsome piece of furniture as well as a safe storage place for out of season woollens.

NUTRITION and HEALTH

- Q. What is a calorie?
A. A calorie is a unit for measuring energy. It is used to express both the energy requirement of the body and the energy value of food.
- Q. Where do we get our calories?
A. We get our calories from the protein, fat, and carbohydrate in the food we eat.
- Q. What food constituent is the most concentrated source of energy?
A. Fat. It supplies more than twice as many calories per unit of weight as either proteins or carbohydrates.
- Q. What does fat do in the body besides supply heat and energy?
A. It carries the fat soluble vitamins and provides essential fatty acids.
- Q. What are four factors which help determine the energy requirement of an individual?
A. Size (height and weight), age, activity, and growth.
- Q. Why does a very active person need more calories than an inactive or sedentary person?
A. He needs more calories to supply the heat and energy necessary to carry on his work.

NATIVE LAUNDRIES
 SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC (Delayed) - Natives on this island operate what they call the "Native Laundry Service, Ltd." Using mountain streams, they wash the clothes of U. S. Marines in true native style — pounding them against rocks.
 Questioned by a prospective Marine customer as to whether his clothes would be washed clean, a native clothes-washer replied: "Me wash clothes — no savvy clean."

Mrs. Phyllis Caton underwent an emergency appendectomy at the local hospital Monday evening.
