Peace Planning in War Urged by Strand

Oregon State College has about completed its transition to full integration with the war effort and must now look forward to the even greater task of transition back to a peacetime program. President A. L. Strand declared in an address to a general staff meeting on the occasion of the opening of the fall term.
 He pointed out that already there are movements, both state and national, which are bound to affect the current of higher education for many years to come, as related particularly to the returned veterans. "I hope that in all such moves the counsel of experienced educators, rather than pressure groups or politicians seeking votes, will prevail."
 In this transition to peace President Strand expressed the belief that land grant colleges, as always in the past, would prove "distinctive in their capacity to adapt themselves to serve their times and circumstances."
 President Strand said he hopes to steer a middle course for scientific and technical education between the extreme of too much liberalism on one hand, and ultra vocationalism on the other. The liberal subjects in technical fields are like an emulsion which has definite limits to the major component, he said. Nor does he see the last detail in vocational skills as necessary in a college course.

Who's a Saboteur?

by Ruth Taylor
 There was an advertisement in one of the New York papers which struck home. It's heading was "Saboteur - Who - Me?"
 That's not a pretty title. The word "saboteur" is an ugly word. It reeks of sly plots to destroy and disrupt. It is a word of darkness and evil. It is a thing of which we want nothing - here in this country of ours, in these United States that are America.
 But all saboteurs are not named with explosives to blow up our plants or to bog down our production. There are unseen saboteurs in our midst whose aim is disunity and whose weapon is intolerance - and far too often they make saboteurs of us without realizing it.
 When we are careless in our speech, when we repeat the facts that should not be known, when we drop the clues that tell of troop movements, of production, of shipments - just the chance word from which the enemy, adding carefully thousands of such sentences, can get the facts - then we, too, are saboteurs.
 When we attack groups within our own country, accusing them of lack of patriotism, condemning all within a group because of the acts of individuals, thus arousing hatreds that set class against class, group against group - then we, too, are saboteurs.
 When we perform our duties of citizenship guided by our hatreds rather than by our calm and measured judgment, when we put party before country, and personalities before abilities, when we measure our cooperation by what we may get out of it, then we, too are saboteurs.
 When we allow ourselves to judge our fellow Americans by class or creed or color, and permit our own personal prejudices and preferences to color our vision, generalizing instead of individualizing, in short, following the Hitler line, we, too, are saboteurs.
 Sabotage is not an American custom. Let's wipe it out forever, by first wiping it out among ourselves. "Saboteur - Who - Me?" NEVER!

NUT GROWERS SCHEDULE ANNUAL MEET IN SALEM
 The Western Nut Growers Association has selected Salem as the place for the annual meeting to be held December 3 in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, according to O. T. McWhorter, secretary-treasurer and extension horticulturist at O. S. C. The one-day program will feature discussions of disease and pest control, orchard management, progress of a mechanical filbert harvester, future marketing possibilities and other items.

MEAT EN BROCHETTE
 Preparing the Meat
 Lamb, pork, or veal shoulder or beef round steak one-half to three-fourths inch in thickness may be used. Cut in boneless one and one-half inch squares. Slice small onions one-half inch thick and cut potatoes into pieces the size of the meat.

Alternate pieces of meat, onion and potato on wooden or metal skewers. Brown the skewered meat and vegetables on all sides in a small amount of lard or drippings. Season, cover, and cook slowly for about 45 minutes.

A Delicious Treat
 When done remove to hot platter. For a delicious luncheon, supper or dinner menu serve a mixed vegetable salad or sliced tomatoes, gingerbread, fresh fruit, and lemonade.
