KOG Numbers 728 In Jackson County

Jackson County boasts a membership in the Green Guards of 728, according to Herb Grey, county chairman of Keep Oregon Green. This youth division of the publicly sponsored fire prevention program has been enlarged to include a year-round program for Oregon youth, the chairman pointed out.

"We hope that even more of the young people of this county join the Green Guard," the chairman continued. "We need the support these young people can give us in times like these to protect our farms, fields and forests from fire. These war years present added dangers from fires, and we must depend more and more on the alertness of young boys and girls to stop devastating fires."

"During vacation periods our children in Oregon spend a great deal of time out-of-doors," the chairman pointed out, "and they have detected and reported, or put out many fires while they were still small. Preventing and reporting of fires promptly are weapons we can use to fight this red enemy of our state, and children can do this work most effectively."

Each Green Guard is given a badge, an identification card and a manual of instructions when he joins the organization. This is an important war and peacetime service and will pay dividends in future good citizenship, good business, happy lives and a prosperous land, the chairman suggested. Any person desiring to join this youth activity should write Keep Oregon Green, State Forestry Building, Salem, Ore. There is no charge for membership, and Green Guards have many opportunities to help do a public service for their state.

Jackson County Falls Below April Quota

Jackson County sold $4.5 per cent of their April quota of War Bonds, it was announced by N. H. Zacharisen, county war finance committee chairman. This percentage represents sales of $181,625. The state as a whole invested $8,901,430 in War Bonds, it was revealed by E. C. Sammons, state chairman, Oregon war finance committee, which is 96.8 per cent of the April quota of $9,200,000, which is also established as the May quota.

"Increased payroll savings participation is an important factor in Oregon's month-in, month-out War Bond effort," asserted Kenneth Martin, executive manager, Oregon war finance committee. "County War Bond workers are emphasizing payroll participation on a regular monthly basis."

FRANK TALK to City People... about the Farm Situation by Wayne Morse

Wayne Morse
Distinguished Republican leader of Oregon who was urged by many prominent farmers to become a candidate for United States Senator.

It is time someone spoke frankly about the organized attempt that is being made to turn City People against Patriotic Farmers.

I've seen this program go on in Washington, D. C., and I'm seeing it go on in our own State of Oregon. It is time that the truth be told. The New Deal is promoting the idea that the farmer is to be considered as a workman, entitled only to wages... not as the business man that he is. It takes a sizeable investment, depending on the type of farm, to provide a unit that will give a man full-time employment. Such an investment certainly justifies the farmer being considered as a business man.

OPA Incites Feeling Against Farmers

I deplore the efforts on the part of the Administration offices, in particular the OPA, to create a class feeling between the city dweller and the farmer. Reports are continuously being circulated that the farmer is now receiving two and three times the amount for his crops as compared to pre-war. This is bound to build an antagonistic feeling against the farmer, because it insinuates that he is profiteering from the war. The same agencies which have the facilities to estimate incomes also have the facilities and know about the increase in the costs of production of farm products. But not one word of this is mentioned, because it would make an entirely different story.

Says Farmers Can't Quit

There are many small business men whose sales have nearly doubled, and yet are operating at a loss, because their costs have risen so high. But in the case of a farmer, all you hear about is the increase in sales—nothing about the increase in costs. Many a farmer has been caught between the price ceiling on farm products and the unregulated increase in farm costs. One Administration official has been heard to state: "We cannot be concerned about whether or not farmers stay in business. We feel sure that enough of them have so much invested in buildings and equipment that they cannot afford to quit even if they operate at a loss during this period. It would be cheaper for them to keep operating than quit. Our only concern can be that enough is produced."

Farm Costs Increase 3 Times—Income One-Half

I'll give you an example. The gross income of the Grade A dairyman has increased about 40% including the federal subsidies he receives. Grain, hay, straw, and labor, his biggest items of cost, have doubled and in some cases tripled. Since it takes 10 to 15 years to build a good dairy herd, the dairyman can't just quit and wait until things get better. He doesn't want to quit; it's his patriotic duty to stay on the job even if it bankrupts him, which has happened in many cases.

City Dwellers Will Pay Fair Price

You city dwellers want to pay a fair price for what you buy. You do not want to be overcharged, and again, you do not want anyone to be forced to sell to you at below cost of production. But when city dwellers are constantly fed the information that producers are receiving two and three times as much for what they buy as previously, how can they help but feel that the farmer is unpatriotic and profiteering at a time when the farmer actually is doing one of the biggest and best, yet so far unrecognized jobs of any group.

City People and Farmers Must Cooperate

When the war is over we will need the close cooperation of the city people and the farmers. They must understand each other's problems and work together because the prosperity of both groups is dependent on the success of the other.

OSC CO-ED EDITOR FIRST IN 49 YEARS FOR PAPER

A tradition of 49 years' standing that the editor of the Barometer is always a man student has been broken at Oregon State College with the appointment of Patricia Glenn of Roseburg to be next year's editor.

All four of the main publication positions will be filled by co-eds next year, which is another "first" as never before have more than two of the major positions been filled by women. Others appointed are Georgia Gray, Seaside, Barometer manager; Marian Jean Kierzek, Corvallis, Beaver editor, and Violet McKee, Amity, Beaver manager.

An eligible man was found to be student body president next year in the person of George Dewey, Lebanon, whose 4-F classification is permitting him to complete his degree course in agriculture.

CHILDREN'S LOW-PRICED SHOES RATION FREE SOON

Children's low-priced shoes in sizes suitable for youngsters from 4 to 10 years will be sold ration-free from May 1 to May 20.

Dealers report that many parents have been unwilling to use ration stamps for low-priced shoes and instead have been buying the higher quality footwear, which have become really scarce as a result. Rather than let the low-priced shoes deteriorate on the shelves, they will now be offered ration-free to help make much-needed shoe mileage available for children, says Miss Lane.

One victory gardener last year figured out that the tomatoes they canned and made into juice from their two dozen plants equaled the ration value of all the blue points of their family of three.

THE VETERAN'S FRIEND logo and title

Q. What are some of the benefits to which the disabled veteran of this war is entitled?

A. Monetary benefits in the form of compensation, or pension, hospitalization and treatment in the hospitals of the Veterans Administration, out-patient treatment for service-connected disabilities, vocational rehabilitation, burial and funeral allowances, civil service preferences and others.

Q. When a veteran dies as a result of disability contracted in World War II, or during peacetime, what are the amounts payable to dependents?

A. When a member or former member of the armed forces dies of a service-connected disability, his widow, children and dependent parents may file claim for pension. In case of death resulting from World War II service or extrahazardous service while serving in the armed forces under conditions simulating war, the widow, children, and dependent parents are entitled to draw pension ranging from $25 to $150 per month.

Q. What is meant by service-connected disabilities?

A. A service-connected disability is any disability which has been incurred in or caused by the veterans active military service or which has been aggravated because of such military service.

Q. What is the burial allowance for veterans?

A. $100 maximum. The Disabled American Veterans has petitioned Congress for an increase in this sum.

Q. Are veterans of World War II entitled under present laws to pensions for non-service-connected disability or age?

A. No. However, in light of past experience the Disabled American Veterans believe that in due time there will be legislation covering these matters.

S. P. PUBLISHES NEW BOOKLET

In 1943, second year of the war, Southern Pacific carried a freight volume in net ten miles 143 per cent greater than the previous all-time high of 1929. Passenger service also reached a new all-time high, being 205 per cent greater than the former peak year of 1920.

These and other interesting facts are contained in a booklet, "Facts About the Southern Pacific Company," which is just off the press.

During the first two years of war the company operated 13,568 special trains for all branches of the armed forces, in addition to the more than 85,000 military cars handled in regular trains. In 1943 the railroad served 10,878,000 meals in its dining cars; 1,623,000 in its restaurants, and sold over 2,000,000 box lunches and some 2,000,000 separate sandwiches.

More than 14,000 former employes were in military service at the close of 1943, and the company was laboring under a manpower shortage of approximately 9000 men.

Send Charles A. Sprague to the Senate and the best interests of Oregon and the nation will be served.
