DO YOU KNOW THE ANSWERS?

By Ruth Taylor

How often do you wake up in the middle of the night and think, "If I had only thought of that sooner. I could have answered you on that." I am sure all of us have had that experience. I know I have. We just aren't quick enough on the trigger and our second thoughts lag far behind our first.

One of the troubles with us who take democracy for granted is that we don't know the answers. We don't doubt for a minute the strength of our own institutions, the endurance of the democratic way of life—but we can't always say why we feel as we do. What would you give for not ONE, but four or five answers for any kind of an argument on democracy?

My friends say I am always ready with the answers. Here's one of the reasons why. There's a little series of booklets which you may have seen, for they have been widely distributed. These Joe Doakes booklets belong in every man's pocket, in every woman's purse, for they do express what most of us really believe, but don't always know how to say.

I have all four of the books on my desk as I write, for I like their tone. For instance, let me quote from one. "I am not an optimist. I am not a pessimist. I have no use for bunk, particularly foreign bunk. No one is going to make me hate the fellow who lives in the same block as I do." Now that's what I call American. Not hate at the beck and call of an outsider—but making up one's own mind according to the individual and the facts.

Far be it from me to suggest that, like the Nazis and Communists, we should have a line, but it's a good thing to read the answers as someone who has worked them out. We can then adapt them to our needs.

I have often used a quote from one of the booklets. "When someone keeps criticizing the way things are going I tell him I never saw a ball game won by the noisy fellow in the bleachers"

Offer Young Men College Training

University of Oregon, Eugene—

Opportunity to attend a college or university in the period between high school graduation and induction into the Army is afforded young men between the ages of 17 years and 17 years and 9 months on July 1, 1944, who successfully passed the Army-Navy qualifying test given March 15, and who enlist in the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps before the deadline of July 1, 1944,

Orlando John Horlis, acting president of the University of Oregon, announced Wednesday after receiving information from Maj.

Gen. David McCoach, Commanding General, Ninth Service Command, Fort Douglas, Utah.

A military scholarship for two or three 12-week terms, depending upon the age of the appucant as of July 1, will be offered in a college or university in the Ninth Service Command or elsewhere. Although the trainee will not receive pay for the period of training, he will receive his uniform, tuition, lodging and meals, medical care, books and transportation from his home to the school. His only expense will be for laundry and other incidentials.

Advantages of enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps before July 1 are the training at a selected college or university for work important both to the Army and to the trainee, the foundation of a college education in the post-war period, and uninterrupted education at government expense during the uncertain period between high school graduation and induction into the Armed Forces, university officials point out.
