Dr. F. W. Walter Kresse and Dr. R. W. Clancy, both of Medford, have been indicted by the federal grand jury on charges of violating the Harrison narcotics statutes, and Dr. Oliver H. Clark, Myrtle Point, has been bound over to the grand jury on similar charges, it was announced Saturday by Assistant United States Attorney William M. Langley.

Kresse and Clancy have been ordered to appear for arraignment on October 3, when the Medford session of the federal court opens. They were indicted by the grand jury secretly last Wednesday for allegedly issuing narcotic prescriptions not "in the course of professional practice only" to persons, who in the course of proper medical practice should not have narcotics.

Investigation of the Medford district by federal narcotic officials was prompted by the extreme activity of the sale of morphine sulphate, Langley reports. The investigation was ordered by the United States commissioner of narcotics. Indictments of the two doctors came as a result of investigation by a federal agent who allegedly procured morphine sulphate from both doctors.

Dr. Clark, who voluntarily appeared before United States Commissioner Robert A. Leedy for hearing earlier this week, posted $1,000 bail. He is charged with the sale of the drug to the same investigator. Indictments returned against the two Medford physicians name numerous dates when the two men supplied morphine sulphate prescriptions to individuals in the Medford area.
