ASHLAND'S FOURTH OF JULY

from Medford in their striking black and white outfits on their trim, well-trained horses, put on an exceptionally fine race.

Jim Warren on "Zipper" took the prize in the Musical Chair race.

The business men's race was won by F. H. Minear, with John Daugnerty and Dave Kerr running a close second and third.

Fred Furry, Phoenix; Gene Ross, Ashland; and Melvin Moore of Ashland were the little fellows that won the money in the kid's pony race.

Vera McIntire, Butte Falls, came in first in the Cow Horse Race although her mount bucked most of the way around the track. Wes Morris of Hilt and Ray Millard of Ashland took second and third in the Cow Horse race.

The Matched Saddle Horse race was won by C. R. Phelps of Ashland with the biggest margin of the day; while Fred Hall and Lowell Fowler from Central Point and Ashland, respectively, ran a close second and third.

The Relay Race was won by J. E. Evans of Medford, with Central Points Frank Hall taking second with his string, and Blackie Smith of Central Point taking "Mexican Joe" thrilled the crowd with an exhibition steer ride. He stayed on the bucking bovine until she was well tamed, then performed the neat little trick of riding backwards and steering the animal with his legs into the catch pen gate. We didn't get his name, but the crowd gave him a big applause.

The show-off in fine style. Denzel Cameron of Central Point suffered a broken collar bone on a re-ride in the Steer Riding events, but otherwise there were no mishaps.

Judges for the day were Henry Owens, Ward Hurlburt and Theodore Jones. Bert Miller acted as time keeper. Ebe Dunn was the announcer and he was assisted by Uncle Wickey of Medford. Walter Hamby was the starter for the races.

During the evening, the Dodge Carnival, set up on C street, attracted a large number. At the Ashland Armory, the Lions club had charge of a dance, and this too proved most successful and drew a large crowd. The band concert at seven o'clock in Lathia Park, as usual, was well attended
