Little Applegate Ready For Power

Ranchers on Little Applegate are now in line to get their share of electrical power, according to officials of California, Oregon, Power, C. Seth Bullis, division manager for Copco, stated that now that the Big Applegate project was underway the ranchers along the smaller stream were making arrangements which would give them power benefits. The pole line and the poles were got out by the ranchers of the Big Applegate area and this will probably be done by the Little Applegate residents.

Jacksonville Ramblings

by Gladys Hamilton

Tuesday night was meeting night for the local grangers, a good crowd was out and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Niedermeyer were on the refreshment committee.

The community regrets that they will not have Mrs. Margaret Goddard as Scout leader for the girls?

The Harold Lawsen's came here for a short vacation last week but after a few days of Southern, Oregon they decided to cut their visit short in order to return to California and dispose of their home so as to become permanent residents of Southern Oregon. They were so impressed by the many opportunities offered here and the beautiful scenery that all in all it was just southern Oregon selling herself to the visitors from California.

The local Girl Scouts assisted last week with the food drive for Jackson county.

Cherries are ripening fast at the Neidermyer orchard.

Miss Sharley DeMoss of Dell Vineyard, is spending two weeks visiting with friends and relatives in Portland and The Dalles.
