Airports

Art Schneider and Elmer V. Ayres, Grants Pass airmen, are planning to take a flyer in an airport here in Ashland. The field will be located at what is known as the Hamby site, the old Balfour-Guthrie place, at the foot of Oak street.

This is the same site which the city considered for a municipal airport last summer, and which was subsequently voted down in a bond election. The cost at that time was $25,000.

What the two Grants Pass men paid for the property has not been divulged, nor is that necessarily important.

The important thing is that rarely do municipally owned airports make money. The majority of them are operated in the red. Private enterprise usually finds a way to operate an airport or any other business and make it pay.

Yet at the time the airport project was brought before the local voters, and turned down by the voters, great was the cry that Ashland was not progressive that the people of Ashland were not looking toward the coming air age.

As is now being figuratively pointed out by the farsighted individuals who are carving an airport out of that bit of property, subsidization of an airport by the city was not necessary.

Private enterprise has stepped in and in the American way will produce.

If an industry is necessary, if there is a demand for its services or product, private enterprise will find a way. The future Ashland Airport proves this.

Pear Publicity

This week the nations outstanding sportswriters including Grantland Rice, Henry McLemore, Ted Husing, L. H. Gregory, George Bertz, Tom Harmon, Ring Lardner, Red Barber, Jack Harris, and Bob Considine will receive gift boxes of Rogue Valley Du Comice pears.

The pears are being sent to the commentators and sportswriters to draw attention to the Thanksgiving Pear Bowl game which is being held in Ashland next week.

Members of the committees which are responsible for the game are working hard to make this sportevent a success.

Led by Walter Leverette, theater and orchard magnate, the Pear Bowl committee has their game off to a head start on any of the rest of the bowl games. Leading off on Thanksgiving day they are a full month and more ahead of the rest of the nations bowl spectacles, most of which are set for January 1st, 1947.

With the unbeaten eleven of Southern Oregon college meeting the Central Washington college of Education, leaders in their league, the fracas should prove to be interesting, both as a football contest, and as an illustration of just what football can do for his town.

The crowds which have yearly attended Ashland Fourth of July celebrations should be small compared to the number of people who will show up for a football bowl spectacle.

Attendant publicity, brought about, the committee hopes, by the taste of the Rogue valley pears, will focus nation wide attention on the community and the Pear Bowl.

One taste of those pears and we believe that the sportswriters will succumb to appeal and will write reams of publicity about Ashland and Southern Oregon college.

One glimpse of that football team in action and we're sure that any sportswriter would be glad to turn out lots of copy about it.

Al Simpson's boys deserve a lot of attention and this Pear Bowl game is one way of getting it.

Rumors are rife that the SONS are in line for a bid to play in the Raisin bowl at Fresno on January 1st.

Unbeaten and untied, the SONS, certainly are worthy of consideration for the Raisin bowl game.

Should they win the Pear bowl game next week it is almost a certainty that the Southern Oregon college squad will get the "Raisin bowl bid. Or, if not that, a bid for some other New Years game.

This has been a good year for the Southern Oregon college squad. Results of a winning football team are rarely as great as they have been for this team.

A Pear bowl game; a stadium, to be called the Pear Bowl, are the two most noticeable things which have evolved from the type of football which Southern Oregon college has been playing throughout the year.

Now, if the attendant publicity will help draw students to Southern Oregon college, and if the annual bowl games turn out like all the committee hopes; this community will be all the better for it.

Southern Oregon college can do Ashland a lot of good. Ashland people can by cooperating and working with the college find that the entire community is benefited.

Tickets for this years Pear Bowl game are going faster than snow on the Fourth of July. If you haven't bought yours yet you'd better do so now. The demand, according to the ticket committee is tremendous, with requests for tickets coming in from Burns; Coos Bay; Ellensburg, Washington; and California points.

The SONS are numbered among the 15 unbeaten, untied teams in the nation, and this fact, coupled with the fact that they are a colorful outfit has created a lot of interest up and down the coast about Al Simpson and his squad.

People want to see them in action. And if you want to see them in action you'd better get your ticket now.

All insurance policies look very much alike but the real test is the service that you receive after you have had a loss, or an accident, and present your claim. Wise property owners are "company conscious" — they look into the stability and reputation of the company back of their policies.
