

Copco Preparing For '47 Expansion

Prediction that the southern Oregon-northern California area served by The California Oregon Power Company will see a substantial population growth and increased economic activity in 1947 was voiced today by A. S. Cummins, president of the Company. This optimistic view is based upon the record of the past year, which covered the first full year of reconversion from war to peacetime economy.

The lumber industry accounted for a major portion of increased business during the past year, Cummins said, although a marked improvement has also been apparent in agriculture, mining and general business. Like many other concerns COPCO has been faced with material and manpower shortages which have made it impossible for the Company to fully meet fast growing demands for electric service.

Prediction of future growth and prosperity of this area was also based upon a widespread interest throughout the United States in Oregon which, from a physical viewpoint, is one of the last frontiers. Polls conducted in other sections of the nation and analysis of new population here clearly indicates a general "go west" trend.

In spite of acute shortages, the California Oregon Power Company was able to complete a 66,000 kilowatt transmission line to Crescent City and a 66,000 kilowatt transmission line from Dixonville to Myrtle Creek. Relocation of electric transmission and

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Charlotte Crowson and Shirley Cooley came back to school from vacation wearing diamonds on their left hands. Miss Bartlett, our typing teacher is one of the "newly-engaged" too.

You'd never guess it to look at him, but Bob Phillips is an artist at heart! His specialty are pencil sketches with a character study.

Shirley Balfour has been in a dither all week trying to make plans and gather her party together to go to Klamath Falls game this week end. She was still trying to make hotel reservations the last time we saw her.

Glen Wade, Mary Lou Hahn and Ronald Quackenbush are hard at work these days making plans and preparation for the distribution lines and water mains along the Weed-Klamath Falls highway was also effected. A total of 185 miles of new distribution lines was constructed, extending service to many rural and residential customers.

Keeping pace with the area's growth, COPCO will undertake construction of a new 25,000 kilowatt hydro-electric plant on the North Umpqua River at Tokete Falls in 1947, following recent approval of the Federal Power Commission and the Hydro-Electric Commission of Oregon. It is expected that the Tokete project will be completed by mid-summer of 1949. Further negotiations are now under way with the Reclamation Service for 20,000 kilowatts of power from the Shasta Project to be delivered to the Company's transmission system at Delta, California.

coming senior-sponsored Winter Formal, January 18 has been set as the date and it is to be held in the Olive clubhouse as plans now stand. This is one of the important school functions of the year, being instigated by the senior class of '46 who desired it to become a school tradition.

That steady stream of seniors leaving A.H.S. doors during the day really aren't playing hooky! The reason for this mass migration is senior pictures for the annual which was started this week.

Harry Kannasto, and Pat Williams are the latest twosome around our school. They were having quite a chat by themselves in the corner of the band room Tuesday.

By a unanimous vote we've nominated Bud Kincaid for wearing the prettiest plaid shirt.

Another "newsome" is Bill Duncan and Nina Berry, who were seen together at a recent basketball game.

We think you should ask Edythe Turnbull about a letter she received from Klamath Falls, that is if you want to see her bluish.

Seen in a class meeting . . . Mary Alice (peg) Yeung, arguing as usual.

Bill Walters finally returned from his lengthy vacation, when he visited in Kansas and is now at the old grind, selling advertising for the Rogue Annual.

A number of students attended the Rogue Valley Chorus concert in Medford Tuesday night with Mr. Bjorlie.

The big question is . . . will Bobbie Gertson get her sweater finished in time to wear it to the Klamath Falls game??? . . . that is what we all anxiously ponder as she knits faster and faster. . . .

The biology class found out yesterday that Carol Benoit is squeamish about certain things like a human skeleton. . . no one fainted though. . . .
