COLLEGE SHOWN TO BE COMMUNITY'S BIGGEST BUSINESS

(Continued from front page) bers about the Pear Bowl, Dr. Stevenson expressed a regret that Ashland had failed to support the college football team to a degree necessary to make it a paying enterprise. He further estimated that it would require an average of $3000 per game for the athletic program to be a profitable enterprise. This amount, he said, was necessary in that football carried the entire year's athletic expenses. Basketball and other sports had proven to be strictly liabilities. Last years average income in home games was slightly over $2000 per game and ultimately not enough to handle the years outlay of $37,000 for equipment and operating expenses.

Dr. Stevenson explained though, that it was not entirely for financial reasons that Southern Oregon College would play only a few home games this year. He stated that the college belongs to Southern Oregon and that an effort to distribute games among the towns of southern Oregon was made to extend and broaden interest in the school. This method he explained, was one of the school's best advertisements.

Red Raiders To Travel Far And Wide During '47 Season

Ashland Football fans who plan to follow the path of the Red Raiders of Southern Oregon college will have to travel far and wide to see the famed side hill team play.

The first game of home series is scheduled for Saturday, September 27, at Medford when the Raiders meet Eastern Oregon college of Education. The Raiders then jump to Prineville where they will play the University of Portland Frosh on October 4.

Klamath Falls fans will witness the next game of the home series with Humboldt college meeting the Raiders there on October 10. Scene of the next raider's "home" game is Grants Pass where the college club will play Oregon college of Education.

Medford will see the Raiders in action twice as on October 25 a Linfield college eleven will play Simpson's club on the Medford high school turf. The Chico state college game which will take place November 15 will be held at Ashland.

Coach Al Simpson, assisted this year by Ted Schopf, has sixty perspiring gridders sweating over plays and fundamentals on the far famed side hill behind the college gymnasium. Last year's undefeated Red Raiders are still on hand, with the exception of two, Charles and Jim Jandreau. Simpson has the club painting
