Writer's Guild Is Formed in Ashland

A Writer's Guild was organized, Tuesday evening when an interested group met at the Plaza Cafe to discuss possibilities of such a club. Vinna Middleton presided as temporary chairman.

Dr. E. P. Borden gave the invocation and spoke on the potentialities of Southern Oregon and the manner in which writers could assist in the development of the Rogue Valley by writing of its great natural beauty and historical spots. He, favorably, compared Oregon's assets with California's scenic spots stressing the fact that California is more widely known because it is more publicized as is true of some parts of Oregon.

C. E. Flory, G. I. student at Southern Oregon College was the guest speaker. He mentioned that twenty years ago, when he was a student at SOC another group had met in Pioneer to form a Writer's Guild.

Flory spoke, knowingly, of the growth and development of China, giving the group many latent ideas for articles, stories, and poems on various phases of "Life in China". He has lived much of his life in northern China, where, contrary to popular opinion, many inhabitants have never tasted rice, being too poor to afford it. Millet and wheat, according to Flory, are the principal cereals of that region.

Resignation of Williams Tabled

Resignation of Clarence Williams as chief of police has been tabled by the members of the Ashland city council in view of the fact that three members will soon be seated on the council.

Speaking for the members of the council at a meeting held last Friday, Harold Merrill, stated that he thought that the new members of the council should sit in on the selection of a new chief of police and that Mr. Williams' resignation should be tabled until the new members had been added to the council.

Williams submitted his resignation Friday, saying that he was resigning because of the results of the recent city recall election.

One of the basic reasons submitted by the Civic Betterment League which sponsored the recall election was the refusal of the city council members to confirm Mayor Williams' appointment of Vern Smith as chief of police.

Ashland To Hear Symphony in '49

Portland, March 24—Ashland is one of 13 Oregon cities in which the Portland Symphony orchestra plans to appear next season in the course of its travels away from its home base.

This was announced today coincident with Governor Douglas McKay's issuance of a statement in which he endorsed the Portland Symphony society's annual subscription program which opened Monday.

Society President Vernon R. Churchill revealed that negotiations are underway—or will be shortly—to take the 70-member ensemble to Salem, Albany, Corvallis, Eugene, Roseburg, Grants Pass, Medford, Ashland, Klamath Falls, Bend, Pendleton and LaGrande. According to tentative plans, several of the cities would be visited during a five-day tour.

"Our concerts away from Portland during the past two seasons have repeatedly brought out the fact that our marvelous orchestra is appreciated everywhere it appears", Churchill said. "It has always been our feeling that the Portland symphony, the state's greatest musical asset, belongs to every Oregon proponent of fine music."

Materialization of arrangements for the 1949-50 season depends, however, on the raising of $150,000 for the orchestra's maintenance fund in the next few weeks, Churchill explained. He expressed the hope that "many outside communities will assist in the effort."

U. S. Savings Bond Sales On Increase

Sales of Savings Bonds in the State of Oregon for February total $4,306,11, according to C. W. Thomson, Jackson County Chairman, bringing the total sales for 1949 to $10,824,900. This is roughly $400,000 more than were sold in the first two months of last year.

Consideration of potential councilmen will be the main topic of business at the Saturday night meeting of the remnants of the Ashland city council and Mayor Tom Williams.

Mayor Tom Williams is also expected to report on a projected truck route. He planned to contact Engineer Baldoek of the state highway department concerning the possibility of a bypass for trucks in Ashland.

The committee appointed by the mayor on the truck route is expected to make a report at the Saturday evening meeting. Members of the committee include Will Stewart, Ernie Fulgham, and Bernard Pederson.

The city council meeting is being held this Saturday because of the April 1 deadline on the 15-day negotiation period set up by the council to find replacements for the three councilmen who were recalled.

If the mayor and the council are unable to unanimously agree upon three replacements before April 1, according to a motion passed by the council, the matter will be first presented to the people in the form of a special election for a charter amendment which will permit the people to hold another election to elect three councilmen to fill the vacancies.

Mayor Williams, last Saturday night, offered the names of Ben Christlieb, Dick Neill, Mont Monroe, and E. E. Sheldon to the three remaining members of the council as men who would accept appointment to the council.

The members of the council, Harold Merrill, Phil Stansbury, and Fred Homes requested that the action on accepting the men be held over for a period of time so that they would have an opportunity to study the situation.

Council Members To Offer Names

Phil Stansbury, speaking for the Ashland City council, stated today that the members of the council planned to present the names of Harry Morris, Dick Trites and Emil Kroeger as potential candidates to fill the vacancies in the council ranks caused by the recent recall election.

The names will be presented at the Saturday night meeting. Previous names submitted include E. E. Sheldon, Dick Neill, Mont Monroe, and Ben Christlieb. These were submitted last Saturday by Mayor Tom Williams. Other names will probably be presented to the council by the Mayor at the Saturday meeting.

According to J. Q. Adams, an official in the Civic Betterment league, several more men are under consideration as being potential candidates for the three posts. Adams mentioned S. J. Bailey, Don Lewis, Jack Reed, Homer Billings, Dr. W. E. Bracker, Phil Wendt, and C. W. Allen. Adams stated that these men had not been contacted as yet and he did not know whether or not any of them would consider accepting the positions.

Global Timekeeper

Many and varied are the functions of the century-old U. S. Naval Observatory in Washington, D. C. But principal among them is that of timekeeper for the nation's ships at sea. The WAVES in the photo needn't be more than a few thousandths of a second off after sailing a r variation with the earth's super-accurate astronomical clock.
