Helicopter Saves Boys Found Aground on Bar

NEW YORK.—Two boys who had been missing almost 48 hours in a rowboat were rescued by a coast guard helicopter from a sand bar in Jamaica bay.

The helicopter feat was the second successful mission by this type of aircraft in two days. The day before the second rescue a police helicopter pulled to safety a Brooklyn man who was almost sucked under by mud in the bay.

Gertrude Berg may regret that "The Goldbergs" are now on television instead of radio. Mrs. Berg, the show's author and star, is so determined that it will run smoothly that they rehearse 30 hours a week.

Ezra Stone, director of Broadway's "At War with the Army" and star of "The Aldrich Family," has begun a new career as a lecturer. Made his first appearance last month in Buffalo, and has been booked in various other cities.
