Ample Room Secret To Broiler Raising

Each Bird Needs 0.6 Square Feet of Space

There's good money in broiler raising, providing efficient and scientific production methods are employed. Proper housing that gives sufficient room is a "must" for a successful broiler operation. The University of Delaware agricultural experiment station has found that

In this sectionally-built poultry house, which is 16 feet wide and 60 feet long, an Indiana broiler producer raises 1,200 three-pound broilers every 10 or 11 weeks.

"broilers should be allowed at least 0.6 of a square foot per bird."

For the farmer who wishes to start raising broilers in a modest way and develop the business gradually, there is available an "expandable" sectionally-built poultry house that is ideal. The four-foot sections may be added as required. Some poultry raisers have such buildings 300 feet long, but they may be made as long as required.

These arched-roof buildings are strongly built on a framework of laminated wood rafters and covered with Masonite tempered hardboard, which weathers well and is durable. Their curved shape provides ample headroom, and there are no interior pillars to take up room and impede movement.

Summing up the effects of crowding, the experiment station says: "Rate of growth, uniformity of growth, feed consumption, cost per pound of broiler, and pounds of broilers sold per chick started are production factors adversely affected by crowding broilers."

Northern States Alert To Cattle Health Threat

Cattle owners in states along the Canadian border are warned to be on guard for outbreaks of bovine anaplasmosis.

This is a malaria-like blood disease of cattle that was once considered mainly a problem of the south and west, where it causes multimillion dollar losses. Now veterinarians also are finding the disease in northern states formerly considered free of it.

Reporting on the problem, the American Veterinary Medical Association said that some cases recently diagnosed in Minnesota were so mild they escaped the owner's attention. Other cases were passed off as some sort of poisoning, simply because nobody figured anaplasmosis would be striking that far north.

Cattle that recover from it remain as carriers, and many of them have been shipped from the badly infected areas to northern states. They look healthy but have anaplasmosis germs in their blood and are a ready source of infection for other cattle.

Nine-Ounce Egg

Rufus Jennings of Oak Knoll farm is shown with a nine-ounce egg laid by one of his 5,000 New Hampshire hens recently. Jennings found no dead bird indicating that the hen survived. The egg is the largest to be weighed on an ordinary egg scale and tops previous U.S. mark of eight and one-half ounces set by Windham, N.H., hen. The Windham hen died.

Olson, who will be in charge of the tests, said the investigation will be made to find how much phosphorus delivery power there is in several Nebraska soils. Tests will also show what proportions of the phosphorus which is used by oats comes from the soil.
