When you get paint on the windowpanes, or when somebody else does and you have to get it off, soak the glass with hot vinegar. Give the vinegar a few minutes to work, and then rub or scrape the paint off. A penny makes a safe, effective scraper. If you use a razor blade or something else that is sharp, be careful around the edges. A careless thrust may jab under the putty and eventually cause it to fall out.

Special Interest Senators

THE PUBLIC was asleep at 3 A.M. when the senate staged its most revealing debate on price control. Asleep also were many newspapermen.

Yet the speeches certain senators made at that time—just as price controls were scheduled to expire—and the amendments they introduced, gave the clearest of all pictures regarding who pulls the strings to make certain senators dance.

At about 2:30 A.M. up spoke Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, his silver hair more awry than usual. He had an amendment which would have increased the price of automobiles throughout the nation.

Ferguson did not mention the fact that his wife and son-in-law are heavy stockholders in a subsidiary of one of the biggest automobile companies—Chrysler. Nor did Sen. Willis Robertson of Virginia mention it, as Sen. Elmer Thomas was unkind enough to do three years ago when he threatened to expose Ferguson's family interest in Chrysler unless Ferguson quit investigating him.

However, Robertson, alert to catch the significance of Ferguson's amendment, warned his colleagues that it was "tailored perfectly to increase the price of automobiles."

"Then this is a roll-up amendment," snapped Clinton Anderson of New Mexico. "If we want chaos in price administration, this is the easiest way to get it I have ever seen."

Then, turning to Ferguson, the New Mexico senator observed: "It applies primarily to the automobile industry."

"The senator is correct," admitted Ferguson. "Why should that industry be discriminated against?"

"The profits of automobile manufacturers were reasonably good, were they not?" Anderson shot back, referring to the fact that most big motor companies have just celebrated their highest profits in history.

"Now we come to the secret. The senators want to fix prices so as to determine profits," angrily shouted the Michigan senator.

Ferguson had reason to expect his automobile amendment to pass like other special-interest amendments, long-rolled through in the early hours of the morning. But it was defeated—with Michigan's other senator, Blair Moody of Detroit, voting against it.

Heart sick Senator

One of the greatest speeches of the inflation debate was delivered in the senate at about 3 A.M. It was by a man whose banking firm has made him a multimillionaire but who fought vigorously against the big-business lobbies—Herbert Lehman of New York.

Though Lehman is 73 years old and served as governor of New York more terms than any man in history, he is new to the senate. And he seemed hurt and disappointed at the mad scramble of his colleagues to vote for the special interests.

Finally he rose, and speaking sadly, softly, said:

"What I am about to say is not going to please my colleagues in the senate. Yet I must say it. Here we are engaged in a life-and-death struggle, a struggle for survival against the most ruthless enemy in history, fighting on two fronts, on the military and on the economic."

"We ought to be engaged exclusively in considering legislation to benefit all the people of the country, legislation to keep our country on a sound economic basis. Yet, here I see and hear senator after senator rise, not to concern himself with the issues before us, but to play politics, to blast the Administration. I tell you, it has made my heart sick to hear all this. It makes me feel that we are betraying the people who send us down here."

"We are about to pass a bill which is a bad bill, a bill which is not in the interest of the people of our country," Lehman continued. "I know there is nothing I can say which is going to reverse the trend and bring about the ends I and many of my associates and the people seek. Deep down in our hearts, we all know that these ends are necessary. Yet some are acting without regard to what is right. But I hope that we are not going to be supine or satisfied with what we have done."

"I assume that what I have said will not set well with some of my colleagues," Lehman concluded. "Yet I am glad I said it. I think it is something which had to be said on the floor of the senate."

Peanuts and Milk

Senators Ed Thye, Minnesota Republican, and Warren Magnuson, Washington Democrat, also pushed through an amendment to freeze dairy and peanut products at their present high prices. But Senator Anderson objected.

"The bill we are considering is designed to try to put ceilings on prices," he said. "How is a measure that would prevent prices from dropping germane to a bill that is trying to put on ceilings?"

New Faces Liven Boxing Picture

By GRANTLAND RICE

IF there is one thing the fight game or the ring game needed above everything else it was the arrival of new faces. Most of the old faces had begun to pall, leaving a depressing effect. The most popular new face seen around the East, was that of Bob Murphy, the Californian carrying the busiest pair of fists we've seen in a long, long spell.

There is another face for the East to look at since Rex Layne lost to Rocky Marciano at the Garden recently. If Layne or Marciano, or both, can make good up to the Murphy measurements there will be no complaint. There is still a young fellow named Matthews who can take care of himself, not to mention many others.

Ray Robinson has about the only old face that hasn't lost its ring appeal. The answer here is the natural ability, the boxing skill of a great fighter. But most of the old ones have begun to wear out. Replacement orders were badly needed when Murphy arrived and Layne came on from Utah.

We have a faint idea that the face and actions of Murphy are not going to appeal to Doc Kearns, manager of Joey Maxim, the light heavyweight champ. Using the same tactics he employed in the Ezzard Charles fight, Maxim might last three rounds. Maybe four. Here is the boxer-sluggish combination that makes a good party, as a general rule. Maxim hasn't been too busy in the last two years, but he will spend one of the busiest evenings of his career trying to keep Murphy out of his hair when they get together.

Murphy is the Dempsey type that gives his entire attention to the offensive side. He has little or no interest in defending himself. He is a good puncher, fast enough, and dead game. He also has that other needed ingredient—ability to take a punch, head or body.

The Layne-Marciano evening should give you a better line on where these two belong in the field.

The sovereign state of Iowa is a pretty fair representative commonwealth as far as average Americanism is concerned. Iowa certainly has as many true Americans, man for man or woman for woman, as any state in the nation.

Such states as Iowa, Texas, Indiana, Tennessee and Ohio are what you might call basic states in regard to American sports.

The Best Dodger Team
Is this 1951 model the best Dodger team of all time—looking back to Ned Hanlon's Superbas?

There is little doubt about it. With the addition of Andy Pafko, the Boyceville Bruiser, Chuck Dressen's squad steps out as the best team in either league this steamy season.

Their one vulnerable spot is in the box where Roe, Newcombe, Branca, Podbielan, Erskine, King, aren't the best, yet not the worst.

To show the Dodgers' overall make-up, I doubt that a Giant could make this team—with one exception. That one is Maglie, the best Giant pitcher.

Even Ralph Kiner, the Pirate first baseman, couldn't be named over Gil Hodges.

The Four Pillars

MR. W. G. VOLLMER, president of the Texas & Pacific Railway Company is circulating a beautifully written pamphlet, entitled "The Four Pillars of Freedom." With it is a series of excellent newspaper ads for presentation to the public in the nation's newspapers.

The four pillars of freedom, Mr. Vollmer says, are work, save, vote and pray. Work for increased production; save for both government and private thrift; vote, as a sacred obligation to protect our rights and freedoms; pray for the wisdom and courage to do our duty as good Americans, faithful to God and to our country.

These are worthwhile aims to which no American can object and to which every American should adhere in private and public life. The sad fact is, however, that as you read through this fine pamphlet prepared by Mr. Vollmer, it is like biting into the proverbial luscious red apple and finding the proverbial worm. For unfortunately, as in most cases, Mr. Vollmer has a "gimmick," an axe to grind. And we find it in just one paragraph, which spoils the whole barrel.

For in discussing how to save, Vollmer says: "The various social programs, benefits, bounties and aids should be discontinued." Which adds up to the brutal fact that Vollmer would kick out the window the entire social security program of old age assistance, unemployment insurance, aid to the blind, to needy children and maternal welfare, a program the congress has just seen fit to extend to include more people and to increase the benefits. It is indeed too bad that some pillar of the business hierarchy cannot advance a completely objective and unselfish program without a hidden motive or political booby trap concealed beneath the flowery wording.

Cigarettes Similar

Which is your favorite brand of cigarettes? Well, it makes little difference, according to the Federal Trade Commission, which has been conducting unrelenting warfare against the cigarette companies, charging misleading and false advertising. For the FTC makes a finding there is "no significant difference in the amount of nicotine, acid and throat irritants contained in the leading brands of cigarettes. One case instituted by FTC and appealed by the cigarette company has just been affirmed by the U.S. court of appeals at Richmond. Another appeal is pending in the U.S. court of appeals in Chicago. Others are in various stages of litigation. But if you will notice, the advertising techniques of all brands show a decided change as a result of the FTC orders. Here's what FTC says about all the leading brands of popular cigarettes:

"Testimony of medical witnesses, as well as reports of tests and experiments conducted by chemists, establishes that there is no significant difference in either the tars and resins or the nicotine in the smoke from all the leading brands of cigarettes. The testimony of medical experts also establishes that the smoke from all the leading brands is irritating to the mucous membrane of the respiratory tract and the differences in the chemical constituents of different brands of cigarettes, as shown by reports of tests, are so slight that the smoke from one brand of cigarettes is no less irritating than is the smoke from other brands." So there!

Farmers and Controls

Of course the farm organization may assert their independence and rebel, but Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan is still urging controls. This time the secretary declares there is an urgent need for effective use of materials available for control of the corn borer and other insect pests.

Puny Fourth

There was especial emphasis everywhere this year on celebrating Independence Day, July 4, because it was our 175th birthday anniversary as a nation. Here's how congress celebrated: After unanimously voting to hold a July 4 session to commemorate the occasion, 75 of the 435 House members turned out for the first session in 10 years, to spend 13 minutes in hearing the Declaration of Independence read. The senate did not meet.

No People's Lobby

Congressman Winfield K. Denton of Indiana probably has hit the nail on the head with reference to price controls. Said the Hoosier representative: "Most people seem to want controls at this time, but unfortunately, many of them want them applied to everyone but themselves. Congress has been besieged by one group after another looking for exemption of their fields of interests from government restrictions. Many groups have protested price control

Household Hints

If you use thin oilcloth as a lining for dresser drawers or shelves and want it to stay put until it wears out, give the surface to be covered a thin coat of shellac and place the oilcloth on while the shellac is still wet. The shellac will serve as a glue when dried.

The attractive sea shells you find this summer will make fine ornaments and ash trays. Clean them thoroughly and dry. Then apply two thin coats of fresh white shellac, allowing each coat to dry first.

If aluminum sink edges blacken aprons of persons standing against them, rub the aluminum with steel wool. Then apply two thin coats of fresh shellac.

Discolored glass flower vases can be cleaned by filling them with a solution of warm water, baking soda and a few potato peels. Let this remain for several hours, then rinse in clear warm water to which ammonia has been added.

An attractive bedroom has walls painted a soft cactus green with woodwork done in a grayed coral tone. At the window, which serves as a dressing table site, there are small folding shutters instead of draperies. The blond wood of the furniture blends with the beige tone of the ceiling and chair upholstery echoes the coral of the coral of the woodwork.

A novelty hanging vine can be grown from sweet potato by planting in a hanging basket or pot of sand or sand loam and watering occasionally. The leaves are dark green and resemble certain types of ivy.

Changing Woodwork Finish

QUESTION: We bought an old cottage which has grained woodwork. It is badly marred in places. Is there any possible way this can be removed and an oil stain applied? The baseboards are rather wide and I am afraid if we were to enamel them white, it would make them look still wider.

ANSWER: I don't agree with you on that point. I believe that if you were to enamel them to match the color of the walls, the width of the baseboard would not be so apparent as it would be if it were a contrasting, and probably a darker color than the walls. You can remove the present finish with a small portable electric sander (if you can buy or rent one), or else by softening it with varnish remover and scraping it off, then cleaning off the remover thoroughly with turpentine. You can finish with two coats of enamel undercoat and a coat of enamel, or else with your oil stain and varnish. I hope you will not make the woodwork too dark.
