Family Silhouettes

Life-size silhouettes of family faces make unusual wall decorations. Trace each likeness on cardboard with a white wax pencil and follow the outline with a scroll-saw. Wax or varnish after lightly beveling the edges. Hang the silhouettes with metal clips attached to the backs with an adhesive.

Artist Paints on Hardboard

Grandma Moses, primitive artist whose career began at age 76, uses tempered hardboard exclusively as a medium because it lasts longer than canvas. She prepares it by covering the screen side with linseed oil and three coats of flat white paint.

AMAZING!

A man was discovered by his wife one night standing over his baby's crib. Silently she watched him. As he stood looking down at the sleeping infant, she saw in his face a mixture of emotions—rapture, doubt, admiration, despair, ecstasy, incredulity. Touched and wondering alike at this unusual parental attitude and the conflicting emotions the wife with eyes glistening arose and slipped her arms around him.

"A penny for your thoughts," she said, in a voice tremulous. He blurted them out:

"For the life of me, I can't see how anybody can make a crib like that for three forty-nine!"

Baby Lobsters Travel For Great Distances

The life story of a lobster that leaves home as an infant is being unfolded by marine science. The Florida spiny lobster, or sea crayfish, may travel many hundreds of miles from the place it is spawned to the sea-bottom where it grows to maturity.

The discovery expands earlier scientific concepts and knowledge of crustaceans, a family that supposedly does little ocean traveling—until a member is unlucky enough to walk into a lobster pot.

Instead of staying home, tiny spiny lobsters have been found drifting in the warm, bright blue swath of the Gulf Stream off Miami, together with hundreds of other kinds of microscopic sea life lumped under the general name "plankton." The scientists believe these lobsterlings may have come from waters around the West Indies, far to the south. If this be so, lobsterlings spawned in the Miami area probably travel far to the north before settling down.

"When Fire Was God!"

Proud of producing a fire by rubbing two sticks together, the ancient Babylonians named one of their gods, "Gebil," meaning stick of fire. A far cry indeed from today's convenient box match.
