

High school graduation heals World War II internment wounds

NEWPORT BEACH, California (AP) — A California man who missed his 1942 high school graduation because he was locked up in an internment camp for Japanese Americans finally walked in a cap and gown in late June, more than seven decades after he was pulled out of class just a month shy of his big day.

Don Miyada, now 89, joined Newport Harbor High School's 2014 graduating class on stage and received a standing ovation when he was hailed as an inaugural member of the school's hall of fame, the Los Angeles Times reported.

Miyada was 17 years old when he was sent with his family and more than 17,000 other detainees to a patch of desert land near Poston, Arizona shortly after the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor during World War II. A teacher later sent him a letter expressing shock that he couldn't finish high school and included a diploma — but Miyada always regretted that he missed the celebration.

In May, Miyada met Newport Harbor's principal, Sean Boulton, during a Memorial Day service at the high school and Boulton invited him to walk with the 560 seniors who would be graduating. Boulton even found a copy of the program from what would have been Miyada's graduation day in 1942.

"My name was on there," Miyada said. "I wasn't able to attend, of course, but my name was there anyway. It was very emotional."

After two years in the camp, Miyada moved to Michigan, where he was drafted. He went on to serve in the U.S. Army in Europe and then earned a doctorate in chemistry from Michigan State University. He eventually became a professor at the University of California, Irvine.

During the graduation ceremony, Miyada returned the letter he had received from his teacher and thanked the teenagers who were crossing the stage with him.

"It's their time to graduate and their time of honor," he said. "I'm happy they invited me to be one of them."

Dodgers complete Darwin Barney trade with Cubs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Dodgers have completed their trade with the Cubs, sending minor-league pitcher Jonathan Martinez to Chicago and optioning infielder Darwin Barney to the Triple-A Albuquerque Isotopes.

The last-place Cubs sent Barney and cash to the NL West-leading Dodgers for Martinez.

Barney, the 28-year-old Gold Glove winner in 2012, played second base, third base, and shortstop in five seasons with the Cubs, but they cut him loose after he hit .230 with 16 RBI in 72 games this season. He is a .244 career hitter with 18 homers and 146 RBI in 542 games.

Martinez, a 20-year-old right-hander, was 7-5 with

Princess Mary Superal wins U.S. Girls' Junior

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — Princess Mary Superal won the U.S. Girls' Junior to become the first Filipino winner in U.S. Golf Association play, beating Mexico's Marijosse Navarro on the 37th hole.

The 17-year-old Superal won the par-5 36th hole with a birdie to pull even and ended the match with a par on the first extra hole — the par-5 14th on Forest Highlands' Meadows Course — after Navarro drove into the water.

It was the first final to go to extra holes since 2006, when Jenny Shin beat Vicky Hurst in 37 holes.

The 17-year-old Navarro rallied to square the match with birdie wins on the 32nd and 33rd holes and took a 1-up lead with a par win on the 35th.

A three-time Women's Mexican Amateur champion, Navarro was sixth this year for Texas A&M in the NCAA tournament.
