

Asians in American sports • Asian Americans in world sports

Young Asian golfers take turns atop LPGA

By Mike Street
Special to The Asian Reporter

No major American sport has seen more rising Asian talent than the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA), and this year is shaping up to be one of the most exciting Asian-dominated seasons ever. Already, three different golfers of Asian heritage have captured the top spot in the LPGA's Rolex Rankings and eight of the top-ten golfers are also of Asian descent.

This season began with Lydia Ko at number one in the Rolex Rankings, after just missing winning the top spot for the second-straight year in 2016. That near-miss inspired the Korea-born New Zealander to change her clubs, caddie, and instructor at the start of this season, and Ko promptly finished in the top ten in three of the first four tournaments.

Then she missed the cut at the Kia Classic in March and fired her new caddie in April, shortly before an eye infection forced her to withdraw from the Texas Shootout. Top-ten finishes in her next three events suggested Ko was back on track, but she hadn't won any of the season's first 11 events, and that's not the way to hold onto the number-one spot in the LPGA.

Breathing down Ko's neck has been 21-year-old Ariya Jutanugarn, the Thai golfer who edged her out for the top spot in 2016. Jutanugarn not only won the 2016 Rolex Rankings, she also won the money title and the Race to the CME Globe — all in just her second season on the tour. Only one other player has taken all of those three awards in the same year: Lydia Ko in 2015, also in her second LPGA season.

Jutanugarn built on her 2016 finish with a strong start to 2017. In her first 11 tournaments, she finished in the top ten of eight of them, three of those in the top three. Heading into the Manulife LPGA Classic in June, Jutanugarn stood just a hundredth of a point behind Ko, so close that an LPGA miscalculation had mistakenly put her in first before the error was discovered.

But instead of a dramatic showdown at the Manulife, Ko chose not to play, and Jutanugarn won the tournament in a playoff, placing her correctly atop the Rolex rankings. It was the first time a Thai golfer — male or female — had reached number one in the world.

SUPERIOR STROKES. South Korea's So Yeon Ryu (top photo) hits out of a sand trap on the fourth hole during the final round of the U.S. Women's Open Golf tournament in Bedminster, New Jersey. In the bottom photo, Ariya Jutanugarn of Thailand hits off the 14th fairway during the first round of the same tournament. (AP Photos/Seth Wenig)

Jutanugarn's reign would not last long, however. The following week, she tied for 22nd place in the Meijer LPGA Classic — a respectable finish, but not good enough to stay in first place after South Korea's So Yeon Ryu won the Walmart NW Arkansas Championship.

Now Ryu stands at the top of the Rolex Rankings, a move that has surprised few LPGA fans. Another excellent young golfer, Ryu won the 2011 LPGA U.S. Women's Open before even joining the tour, and then she took the Rolex rookie award the following season.

Though Ryu had only won three other LPGA events before this season, she consistently finishes in the top ten of tournaments thanks to her very precise game. In 2016, she ranked second on the tour in greens in regulation, sixth in scoring average, and 10th in rounds under par. She began this season with an active streak of making the cut in 55 consecutive tournaments.

Ryu has continued her consistency. Though she broke the streak at 64 straight tournaments in June by missing the cut at the ShopRite LPGA Classic, Ryu has still notched five top-five finishes this season (including a victory at the ANA Inspiration in March) and four more finishes in the top ten.

Since ascending to the top spot, Ryu has played well while Ko and Jutanugarn have struggled. Ryu tied for 14th at the KPMG Women's PGA Championship and tied for third at the U.S. Women's Open. Ko, meanwhile, tied for 59th at the PGA Championship and tied for 33rd at the Open, starting strong in both events before faltering over the final rounds.

Continued on page 16

Find general information about the city and employment opportunities at:
<www.hillsboro-oregon.gov>

DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

The Oregon State Bar is looking for someone to provide strategic direction, administration, & oversight for the acquisition, development, operation, & integration of all IT resources & services.

Please visit <www.osbar.org/osbcenter/openings.html> for job details.

Equal Opportunity Employer

Join Our Team!

Why work with PPS Nutrition Services?

- Work with kids and food
- Day shifts, no nights, regular work schedule
- No weekends or holidays
- Training provided

Call (503) 916-3271 for more information.

Applicants must be fingerprinted, pass criminal record check and obtain Multnomah County Food Handlers Certification.

Portland Public Schools
501 N Dixon St., Portland, OR 97227
Phone: (503) 916-3399

This institution is an equal opportunity provider.

SERVICE DISPATCHER

Closing Date/Time:
Sun., 08/13/2017, 11:59pm Pacific Time
Salary: $17.95 - $25.88 Hourly

This position is NOT affiliated with 911 Emergency Services

The City of Portland is seeking a Service Dispatcher in the Portland Bureau of Transportation (PBOT). Service Dispatchers perform activities related to the dispatch of equipment and crews in a public utility setting (Transportation and Water Bureaus) during the normal course of day-to-day activities and during emergencies. Duties include operating a base radio transmitter to maintain radio contact with mobile units; dispatching units to work sites; forwarding messages and instructions between crews, supervisors and representatives from other City agencies; receiving radio calls from field units; and communicating with employees using radios and cell phones.

For more information, or to apply, please visit <www.portlandoregon.gov/jobs>

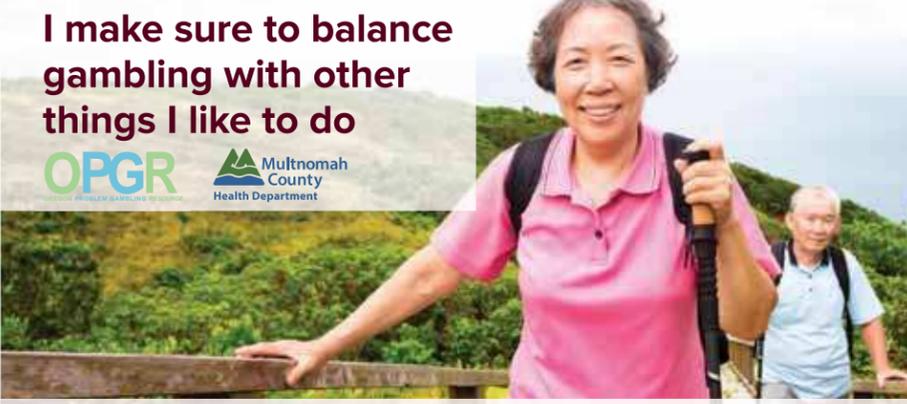

Tu Phan

Call for:
Refinances
Purchases
Offering:
FHA/VA/Conventional Mortgages

NMLS # 2289
MLO # 7916
12817 S.E. 93rd Avenue
Clackamas, OR 97015
(503) 780-6872
<tu.phan@fairwaymc.com>
<www.LoansNow.com>

I DON'T LET GAMBLING LIMIT ME

I make sure to balance gambling with other things I like to do

Is gambling throwing your life out of balance?

Help is FREE and confidential at
1-877-MY-LIMIT (877-695-4648) or OPGR.org

DON'T LET TEXTING BLIND YOU

STOP TEXTS STOP WRECKS.ORG

