Seattle zoo to debut twin red panda cubs on November 23
