Milling.

For many centuries the hordes of the Orient have subsisted upon rice, to the exclusion of other food staples. Naturally they have grown a little tired of the monotony—who would not after a thousand years?—and the introduction of American flour has produced a revolution of diet. Being excellent, cheap and palatable, the more the Chinese use our flour the more they want it, and it seems only a question of time until rice is supplanted by wheat flour, which contains more nearly the needed proportions of gluten, protein and fat, the three great essentials for human existence. The many uses to which American flour can be put has been a revelation to the Chinese, and its economical side appeals to him most strongly, since he can sell his rice to the outside world, and buy our flour for one-half the cost of his staple.

In 1889 there were exported to the Orient only 418,000 barrels of flour; in 1899 this had grown to 2,000,000 barrels. With increased ocean tonnage, fairer tariffs by the carriers as against wheat, reduction by reciprocity or special treaty of the flour duties now imposed at foreign ports, the milling may be preserved to the Pacific Coast, rather than done by the foreigner. Oregon now possesses 136 flour mills, with daily capacity of 14,000 barrels, of which 9,000 barrels are ground exclusively for the export trade.

the Willamette Valley you couldn't find a better bargain. The owner netted $900 from the 10 acres of hops the past season.

403 acres of fine prairie land, 4 miles southeast of Junction City, on the river road, and 10 miles north of Eugene; 300 acres under cultivation; 60 acres fine hard wood timber; residence and two barns; but little gravel; 12-acre orchard; well fenced. Can be divided east and west so as to give each half part of timber. Will be divided or sold as a whole to suit. Price $35 per acre. This is the old Hallin farm, and is worth $50 an acre.

800 acres, 2 1/2 miles southwest of Junction; 250 acres under cultivation; 50 acres timber, oak and ash; watered by the Long Tom and several small lakes; over 10 miles of fence, divided into 10 fields and pastures; could be divided into 3 farms and each one could have a good road all graded and graveled all the way to Junction City; 3 stock barns 40x50; 1 barn 60x72; blacksmith shop, hay scales, wagon shed and machine shed; out buildings and a dwelling house of 8 rooms, good as new, cost $2000; two orchards, all kinds of fruit and berries. Price, $14 per acre. Easy terms. A great bargain.
