

Our Washington Letter

WASHINGTON, May 24, 1901.

In sentencing Rev. L. D. Bass to pay a fine of $1000 and to serve three years in prison, for fraudulent use of the mails, in connection with the "Bureau of Civil Service Instruction" and a "Union Teacher's Agency," Justice Barnard, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, addressed a few words to the prisoner, which are equally applicable to all educated crooks. He said: "You have had all the advantages of family, education, religious training, and the position of a minister of the gospel; you have had experience among many different classes of society in different states; and there was no excuse for you to undertake the fraudulent methods and schemes shown by the evidence in this case, to rob the credulous, unwary and inexperienced. You could have made an honest living, and given value for every dollar received, had you not conceived the idea of getting something for nothing, under the pretense of performing a service for others. You went to work shrewdly and systematically to deceive people and to make them confine in your honesty, wisdom and power, by so mixing up truth with falsehood as to pass it all off for genuine. You well knew, as I must believe from the evidence, that you were not able to make good such representations, and that they were all made only to induce your victims to send you their money. You were not sincere in these widely circulated statements, and you have succeeded in depriving many struggling and honest persons of the money that was needed by them for the necessities of life."

The Isthmian Canal question was again brought to the front by the return to Washington of Senor Corea, the Nicaraguan minister, who called at the Department of State and announced that he was authorized by his government to sign a treaty for the construction of the Nicaragua Canal with United States. After his call at the Department of State, Senor Corea said: "I come back with full powers, even to the extent of signing a treaty with the United States. My government is willing to give this country the most liberal terms possible to assist in the construction of a canal through our territory. Of course, it is impossible for us to concede to the United States sovereignty over the lands upon which to build a water way, but we are willing to give the United States the fullest control short of that. President Zelaya and the other officers of my government are perfectly satisfied with the terms of the protocol, signed by myself and the representatives of Costa Rica, with Secretary Hay, last year. We hold that that protocol is still binding. The fact that it is based on the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which has lapsed, does not, in our opinion, invalidate the binding nature of the document. This being the case, we hold that there is no chance for the Colombian government to come in and that the Panama Canal is barred from consideration. The signing of the protocol by the United States, in our opinion, commits the United States government to the Nicaragua route. Even if this were not so, we have every confidence that the United States, of the two routes, would prefer to build the Nicaragua Canal, because the glory of the discovery of this route belongs to an American, it would be constructed with American machinery, and the money spent would come back to the United States." Evidently Senor Corea and his government know of the activity of those interested in creating sentiment in this country in favor of the Panama Canal, and are trying to counteract it.

When the enormous transactions of the United States government are considered, the amount lost by defalcation does not seem large. According to official figures, recently compiled in the Treasury Department, the total defalcations of Federal officials, from the founding of the government to the present time amounted to $16,000,000. The Post Office Department has been the worst sufferer of any branch of the government, probably because it necessarily offers more opportunity for theft.

Correspondence

HARRISBURG.

—Miss Cecil Rampe reached her home from San Francisco on the 23d inst.

—E. E. Upmeyer was at the county seat on Thursday looking after business.

—Mrs. P. H. Couch, of this city visited last week with relations at Springfield.

—Lyman Lassell is here on one of his occasional visits with the old folks at home.

Harrisburg boasts thirty people weighing each 200 lbs. and upward. How is that for heavy weights?

—Thurston Porter has a severely sprained knee. The rope fouled in a tussle with a beef animal.

—Mrs. Frank McMeeken visited last week at Knox Rutte with her brother-in-law, Swank and family.

—The social hop on Thursday evening was well attended, and was a success in the fullest sense of the word.

—The late warm rains have been the making of late sown grains. A full crop seems to be assured at this time.

—Mrs. Mary McGrath, of Eastern Oregon, is here for a visit with old friends and to look after business.

—Messrs. Z. T. Scott and J. W. Norton were in Portland last week to consult with a specialist on ear diseases.

—B. F. Childs, of Brownsville, with his patent feather cleanser, is doing business at the foot of Smith street in his tent.

The Junction City Bulletin is gaining favor very rapidly in this section of the country. Good work, as a rule, is appreciated.

—C. B. Frissell and his estimable wife will occupy the neat cottage residence owned by Damon Smith and situated on North Second street.

—Mrs. Chas. Davis, wife of foreman Davis, of the S. P. carpenters here, after a two months' stay with her husband at the hotel, has gone to her home in Roseburg.

—Mrs. F. Mitchell, nee Cunningham, is here from Eastern Oregon for an indefinite time. Her husband, Professor Mitchell, is off for a peep at the big fair at Buffalo.

—Mrs. M. A. E. Smith, widow of Hon. Hiram Smith, deceased, and nearing her four score years, was in town from her farms this week. She is very sprightly for one of her age.

—J. M. Philpot, in the absence of a creamery or skimming station here, is shipping the milk from his fifty cows to Portland. Who will look after this business? It will pay some one.

—There will be a picnic under the auspices of the Degree of Honor, to be held in the beautiful grove across the river from Harrisburg, that will be the event of the season. Program and other events given later.

—A. J. Johnson and wife of Kansas City are here for health and to see the country. They express themselves as being well satisfied with their trip so far. Mr. Johnson is an uncle of M. E. Hearn of Junction City.

—Woodmen of the World will unveil the monument erected to their late neighbor, Chas. Clark, at the Keeney cemetery, at 11 o'clock Sunday, June 9. Also in the afternoon of the same day, they will hold memorial services at the graves of Johnny Cartwright and J. R. Bucknum, in the A. O. U. W. cemetery, E. E. Davis in the L. O. O. F. cemetery and Edward Knight in the A. F. & A. M. cemetery.

—On last Sunday evening, while Wm. Davidson was milking his cows, across the river from Harrisburg, during the thunder shower of that evening, a flash of lightning rent the air terrifically near by. He says that he was knocked down by the concussion, and two of his cows as well; that when he arose he was in a very dazed condition and that the cows, then, were still prostrate on the ground, but finally got up in a very confused and shaky condition. This is an unusual phenomenon for Oregon.

—A. Wilhelm has purchased of Mrs. E. J. Upmeyer a lot adjoining his property here on the river, which gives him an ample sight for his 100-barrel flour mill. He will move the Laws plant to this city and equip it with up-to-date appliances in every respect and be ready to convey the coming crop into flour and feed. The farmers of this vicinity are volunteering transportation for everything movable of the Laws mill outfit, and will do everything in their power to facilitate this much-needed enterprise.

Harrisburg is to be congratulated upon the accession of the Wilhelms to their number of business people. They have the capital, the business push and are reliable. Whatever they undertake they make it go.
